The Bib Dress.
What Shall He Croon?
Sunshine for Girls.
Meat for All.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 25.

THE WOMEN of Miami have invented a new sort of dress called "the bandana bib," and all women throughout the nation should know about it.

It began with a large bandana handkerchief, two of its ends tied around the neck, the handkerchief brought down modestly over the chest and the other two ends fastened in front to the skirt or baggy pantaloons. This answers the purposes of modesty, covering the upper front of the body, leaving the back and sides exposed to the sun's beneficent rays.

Now dresses that imitate the bandana bib idea are regularly sold and worn by women throughout the day. The idea is only a bib above the waist.

This idea will spread, with warm weather.

MR. RUDY VALLEE, who croons his emotions into the microphone, says President Hoover told him "if I could sing a song that would make the people forget their troubles, he would give me a medal." Some one suggests a song beginning:

"My country 'tis of thee, bring back prosperity."

Many other suggestions are offered.

Better than a song to make people "forget their troubles" would be a song that would make people think about their troubles intelligently, understand them and work out of them.

OF 120,000,000 Americans a majority are quite ready to throw their troubles on the lap of somebody else, saying:

"You can take care of them."

Before the "troubles" end, many Americans will learn that they must solve their own problems, because nobody else is going to do it for them. And many, many Americans will discover in sorrow that WORK is a part of life, for which there is no permanent substitute.

YESTERDAY MORNING, girls big and little, of Miss Harris' school on Brickwell avenue, in Miami, produced a musical play, with a moral. The big girls as "lazy shepherds" that did not want to work took bars of gold from the old shoemaker that lived in a hollow tree.

Fairies and gnomes took the bars of hidden gold away, and the shepherds had to work harder than ever. That play would interest stock speculators.

IT WOULD especially interest mothers of girls that are cooped up in the North all winter, fighting sinus, colds, influenza, etc.

Miss Harris at Miami maintains a school in which girls study all winter in the open air, and sunshine, sailing boats on the bay, preparing themselves for college under excellent teachers at the same time.

Future generations will learn that the Pacific Coast, the Gulf regions, Florida, the Georgia coast and other resorts of all year sunshine should be used for "growing" American children in the winter as well as for growing citrus fruits and winter vegetables.

SOME OF the thoughtful are revising their offhand decision that Russia is only a terrible warning. It is thought possible that a Russian government that tries everything and plans to do everything might not be much worse than a government trying nothing and not planning anything.

The Associated Press tells that Robert P. Lamont, Jr., son of an American cabinet officer, reached Moscow, bringing to Russia one of the "ten gallon hats" well known to our western country, and a plan for doubling Russia's supply of cattle, pigs and sheep within a short time.

Seventeen million cattle are to be changed to thirty-four million cattle, and so with pigs and sheep as rapidly as nature can do the work.

Every farmer knows that it is not much of a task. Our own government made such experiments on a small scale, with one thousand reindeer planted in Alaska changed suddenly to thirty thousand reindeer. But we do these things fancifully, and fitfully.

THE RUSSIAN government proposes to produce enough beef, mutton and pork for every man, woman and child in Russia, and to see that the Russians get it, and eat it.

Such an arrangement may be "bolshevism" and "communism," but perhaps those things are better than not enough beef, mutton or pork.

AFTER TWENTY-THREE days of intensive search there is, unhappily, no news of the Lindbergh child. The state police of New Jersey report their financial resources depleted, the search having cost the police a good deal more than the $50,000 that the kidnapers are supposed to have demanded. That, however, is completely unimportant.

The number of days that have passed are not entirely discouraging. It may be that the kidnapers, having taken the child to a secure hiding place where it can be properly cared for without danger of detection, will wait until the excitement dies down and then deal directly with the stolen boy's father.

'Purple Gang' Leader Identified in Lindy Hunt

CRY OF BABY HEARD FROM CRUISER IN RUM ROW

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 25.—leader of "The Purple Gang" of Detroit, who is being hunted by the authorities in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery, was positively identified from a photograph today as one of three men seen aboard a cabin cruiser in which was a crying baby, on the day after the abduction. The cruiser was plowing aimlessly 30 miles off Scotland Light, which stands about five miles off Sandy Hook.

The identification was made in the office of International News Service by a rum runner who had brought his own craft up close to the cabin cruiser which had hailed him. One of the men aboard the cruiser said they had broken their compass and offered $100 for the rum runner's compass.

A baby inside the cabin cried loudly as the spokesman of the cruiser was talking with the rum runner. The infant's cries threw the spokesman into the greatest excitement and, slamming down the hatch so the baby could not be seen, he ordered the rum runner to "shove off—and beat it quick!"

SECOND MAN NAMED

Not only did the rum runner identify Fleischer, but he also picked out from the photographs another man whom Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, is also seeking for questioning in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. This other man was seen on an ocean-going schooner an hour before the rum runner came in contact with the cabin cruiser which contained the baby and the three men.

The cruiser, when the rum runner left it, was drifting in a southerly direction. This information dovetails significantly with the latest police clue — namely, that the baby is aboard a boat somewhere in Chesapeake Bay near Norfolk, Va., in the hands of kidnapers who are reported to be willing to turn the infant over

Salesman Fined, Freed and Married

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—(AP.)—Carlos N. Hancock, alias Thomas Upton, whose attempts to sell magazines to debutantes brought complaints from them that caused his arrest, was free today after paying a $40 fine and marrying a New York girl.

Yesterday he married Miss Lena N. Bardeen, 21, whose charge against him had caused the raising of his bail from $5,000 to $10,000.

Specialist's Visit To Stalin Denied

MOSCOW, March 25.—(AP.)—A flat denial that a German specialist was coming to Moscow to treat Joseph Stalin, Russia's strong man, came from authoritative quarters today. The Communist party leader's health was said to be normal in every respect.

ABANDON GUARD OF LONGWORTHS

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP.)—A police guard was removed from the home of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth today at her request, but there was no let-up in the watch over the home of Sir Willmott Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times, nor in the search for the sender of extortion notes to them.

While the notes to the widow of the former Speaker of the House did not contain a direct threat against her daughter, Paulina, the child is being kept under constant watch.

The letters to Sir Willmott were more direct. They demanded $1,500 and threatened his 5-year-old son, Willmott, Jr., if the money were not paid.

Police said about a dozen other prominent persons in the capital had been threatened by similar letters in recent weeks.

Sandino Reported Ill in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, March 25.—(AP.)—The newspaper Latino said today that Gen. Augusto C. Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel, was in San Salvador recovering from an attack of malaria.

He was here under the name of Juan Gonzalez Guerra, the newspaper said, adding that he intended to return to Nicaragua this week to prepare for a "great offensive" against interior towns.

Ancients Preferred Blondes, Says Expert

CINCINNATI, O., March 25.—(AP.)—The boys of ancient Greece and Rome liked blondes, too. So much so that girls "blondined" their tresses, even in that remote day.

At least that is what Dr. C. C. Broussas, of West Virginia University, told the Classical Association of the Middle West and South.

HOUSE READY FOR VOTE ON BEER

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The tax battle brought to the House today a second vote on prohibition.

The proposal of Representative Cullen (Dem.), of New York, to place a tax on 2.75 per cent beer as a part of the $1,096,000,000 tax bill, was held to be in order by Representative Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, presiding in the House as in the Committee of the Whole.

The amendment of Cullen was offered soon after the House resumed consideration of the tax bill. Dry members immediately challenged his right to offer it. Uproar followed the decision that the amendment was i norder.

VOTE ASSURED

When the dry members did not appeal from Bankhead's ruling, a vote on the beer amendment during the day was assured.

The Cullen amendment, supported by the House anti-dry bloc, in effect legalizes 2.75 per cent beer on the ground that it is non-intoxicating, prohibits its manufacture in dry states, prohibits sale except in bottles and levies a tax of three cents a pint.

Declaring a beer tax would lighten the burden of taxation for all, backers of the Cullen proposal estimated that it would raise at least $350,000,000 revenue annually.

In holding that the House has the right o vote on the proposal, Chairman Bankhead said it was not up to him to rule as to its constitutionality. Bankhead, a staunch dry, said:

"The amendment is offered for a tax on a non-intoxicating beverage. The Supreme Court has not ruled whether beer of this alcoholic content is intoxicating. And in holding it in order I express no personal view."

Acting Chairman Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, of the Ways and Means Committee, while opposing the beer amendment, joined Bankhead in declaring that it is in order. He said he was willing to share the responsibility for any such ruling.

CHALLENGED BY BLANTON

The right of Cullen to propose the tax was challenged by Representative Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, unofficial dry leader. He said:

"This is a useless and futile thing which could only cause expense to the nation. If an attempt is made to carry it out it would be in clear violation of the Constitution and the Supreme Court would so hold."

Representative Cochran, (Dem.), of Missouri, asked:

MOB MENACES POLICEMAN

A long chase, punctuated by numerous revolver shots, ended early today when Motorcycle Patrolman Robert Hasley, of Mt. Lebanon, and a squad of officers arrested Pete Cherry, 24, and Marn Daldiuffo, 25, both of Bridgeville, in that town, after being threatened by a large crowd.

According to Capt. John Swoager, Hasley has been attacked several times and when he attempted to stop a speeding car in the township last night the car was driven to Bridgeville. Swoager said it was evidently a trap laid for the officer.

Police Chief William J. Kane, of Mt. Lebanon, said he would confer with District Attorney Andrew T. Park on the failure of Bridgeville officers to co-operate in the arrest of th etwo men.

The Morgan Plan of First Aid to the Indigent

He makes over the radio the comforting suggestion that the public help each other by assessing each other and that thus the less needy care for the more needy and ALL the needy be happy and NEEDY together,—without disturbing Wall Street.

The J. Plunderbund Morgan plan (let no one deprive him of the credit of the proposal) would be a little more popular and a little more practicable if all the public (more needy and less needy combined) had not been so thoroughly robbed by the international bankers and the speculative promoters and so completely deprived of this glorious opportunity to help themselves or each other or anybody else.

IT SEEMS PROBABLE in the light of piratical history that this idea of mutual aid for the indigent and unfortunate did not entirely originate in the mind of the present representative of the Morgan family, but first budded in the brain of an earlier Morgan who used to cruise the Caribbean in his private yacht and who, after he had captured and gutted a peaceful merchantman and painstakingly robbed its passengers, was accustomed to make his captives walk the plank and to advise the stronger swimmers to take care of the weaker swimmers so that they might all drown together without inconveniencing anybody on the pirate craft.

It never seemed to occur to either representative of the Morgan strain that the distress of the plundered victims could best be relieved by restoring to them some of the wealth and well-being of which they had been deprived whether by pirates or promoters or ruthless speculators or international confidence men.

Yet to those innocent and unacquainted with the immoral codes of the Captain Kidds of industry it would appear that a natural and appropriate way of relieving the general financial distress at this time would be for the international bankers to restore to the public some part of the tens of millions they took from them in commissions on worthless European and South American bonds and some part of the hundreds of millions the public lost through the bankers' advice on investments in foreign failures and some part of the thousands of millions loaded on the public by the bankers in scandalously over-capitalized domestic insecurities.

CHARITY BEGINS at home, says the ancient saw, and the home for charity properly to begin at is the home of the unscrupulous promoters and conscienceless speculators who purloined the people's money.

If these gentry do not care to contribute any of their ill-gotten gains to help support those whom they have done so much to deprive of their prosperity and employment, the least they can do is keep from intruding into the homes of the plain people with benevolent advice as to how the plundered public may divide among themselves the dollars they have not got.

Indeed, if the public had any money left it seems more than likely in view of past experiences that our international bunko artists and domestic green goods men would be able to find better uses for it than having it wasted on charity,—at least as long as the shell game and the stock market endure.

HARRIS PLAN BACKED BY LEADERS

Vigorous Drive Mapped at Rally to Save 28,000 Families From Hunger

The Harris plan to aid at once 28,000 families—the destitute families of the Pittsburgh district—began to take form today.

More than 125 executives and leaders in Pittsburgh industry, meeting last night in the William Penn Hotel at the call of State Senator Frank J. Harris, acquiesced in the plan. Its hope of getting $100 for each of the 28,000 families to give each $33 a month, barely enough to stave off starvation, was explained by a group of speakers.

ALLDERDICE LEADER

Taylor Allderdice assumed the chairmanship of the plan, which will begin to operate April 4. He said today:

"Nothing else can be quite so important at the moment. We cannot afford to be too busy or too tired to share in the job. We must give up other things for a short time and make way for the appeal of these 28,000 destitute families. If we do not, the critical nature of the problem may be compounded many times. We need man-power to do this job quickly and effectively, and we shall command it if we are forced to draft it."

Last night he called attention to the needs, giving as an example the distribution of 11,000 pints of milk a week to school children.

TELLS OF OTHER CITIES

REPORT SHOWS RELIEF NEED

The Allegheny County Emergency Association, now closing its work and relief program after exhausting its resources in the battle against unemployment, submits the following report to the public. The report points out that at least $15,000,000 must be made available to meet the need in the next 12 months.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association was created by the people of Allegheny county early in 1931, at the earnest plea of administrators of family unemployment relief, to collect and make available funds to meet the emergency then existing. These funds, generously subscribed by the people of Allegheny county, have been expended for direct family aid and for wages to needy persons employed on useful public and institutional works projects. To the people this association now presents this report:

In 14 months the Emergency Association had paid, to March 23, 1932, to needy families of the unemployed, the sum of $3,717,799.98.

RELIEF NEEDS GROW

Of this amount, the association paid, through established welfare agencies, in direct relief to needy families, $1,831,658.21.

In addition, the association paid in wages, to workers employed on city, borough and township, and institutional work relief projects, the sum of $1,735,690.83.

The expense of administration, during all this time, in-

Flock of Wild Geese Flies Over East End

The honking of a flock of wild geese attracted the attention of hundreds in the East Liberty district this morning. George A. Wise, of South Murtland avenue, heard the geese about 7:35 a. m. and sighted a flock of about 15. He called neighbors' attention to the birds in flight. The geese circled in the vicinity of South Murtland avenue for some time and then flew west.

Foe of Crooners Shoots Up Radio, Kills Divorcee

CHICAGO, March 25.—(INS.)—A shooting caused by a drunken gunman's antipathy for radio crooners early today brought death to a pretty 23-year-old mother who came here from Sioux City, Ia., to celebrate her recent divorce.

Dorothy Evely Henshaw, of Sioux City, was the victim. Shot by the gunman, identified by police as Earl McDowell, she died an hour later in a hospital.

McDowell, according to police, staggered into a speakeasy and ordered drinks. From a radio loudspeaker came the crooner's song. McDowell, enraged, whipped out a large revolver and fired four times at the radio, shattering it.

One bullet struck Miss Henshaw.

Clear and Cool Is Promise For Easter Promenade

Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, while refusing to hazard a prediction so far in advance, indicated that following probable occasional showers tonight and tomorrow, the temperature would drop and the skies clear gradually, making the weather chilly, but not too severe for outdoor sunrise services on Easter.

I. C. C. APPROVES ARRANGEMENT RELUCTANTLY

Refinances One-Half of Sum Advanced to Missouri Pacific Due April 1

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Corporation has caused the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve, with some reluctance, an additional loan of $12,800,000 to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company.

The action, approved by a majority of among the [illegible] has the effect of a loan of $5,850,000 to New York banker who is J. P. Morgan & Co., who had [illegible] the railroad must be paid on April 1. Later, however, the [illegible] agreed to extend the [illegible] October 1 and the board of directors of the Finance Corporation voted a loan of $5,850,000 for this purpose, subject to approval of the commission.

RESOLUTION RECITED

The commission's decision, in giving its approval, recited the resolution of the finance corporation. The commission said:

"We are taking the action here with some reluctance. We are not convinced that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should be expected to take up banks loans of this character.

"We hold our own views to those of that body which as we construe the law is charged by Congress with responsibility for determining the question."

The Finance Corporation resolution was adopted March 18, the same day on which President Hoover, Alexander B. Meyer, chairman of the finance division of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and other government financial experts and 18 leading railroad executives held conference.

UNCERTAINTY REMOVED

After stating that in the opinion of this board all existing uncertainties as to the disposition of the April 1 maturities of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company is detrimental to the general credit situation of the railroads," the Corporation resolution said:

"Resolved that subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission this board authorize a loan to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company to the extent of $5,850,000, which amount is 50 per cent of said railroad company's bank loans maturing April 1, 1932, on condition that the holders of the balance of said bank loans agree to an extension of the payment of said balance of $5,850,000 to a date not earlier than October 1, 1932, and on further condition that there be delivered to this corporation as collateral security for said loan one half of the collateral now held as security for said $11,700,000 of bank loans and such additional security, if any, as may be recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission or as to this board may hereinafter seem advisable and be it further resolved that the secretary of this corporation be directed to forward a copy of this resolution to the Interstate Commerce Commission."

LOANS JOINTLY HELD

Although J. P. Morgan & Co. was named by the Missouri Pacific in correspondence with the commission as having spoken for the holders of the bank loans the decision disclosed that they were held jointly by J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. The commission said:

"The bankers who hold the loans are bankers for the carrier. As such they have profited largely in handling its financing in the past.

"It is often represented to us that the relation of a banker to a railroad is very valuable to it because of the banking assistance so rendered available in time of stress; that a railroad can afford to compensate its bankers well in connection with its regular financing in order to have such support available when it is needed.

"We have, therefore, thought that theory to have more merit than this transaction appears to indicate."

man to speak for the Supreme Court?"

"Why, I have been an attorney of the bar of the Supreme Court for 25 years; I know what the court will do."

SEES JOBLESS AID

Cullen said the tax would disturb no one but the bootleggers, would revive employment and provide revenue. He added:

"If we are a rational and a fair-minded House, we will realize that legalizing of 2.75 per cent beer would be favorable received by the people generally."

One of every six persons in England is employed in the beer industry and more than that in France in the wine and beer industries. Revival of the brewing industry, he said, would aid the bottling, glass and many other industries.

Blanton, assailing the amendment, compared the proposal with one legalizing lotteries and bull fights. He said:

RAPS 'DRINKING DRYS'

"Drinking drys" were assailed by Representative Mary T. Norton (Dem.), of New Jersey, as the House neared the end of the debate. Speaking in firm, dignified tones, she appealed to the drinking drys to "vote as they drink." She said:

"I know there are men in this House who follow the prohibition cause and do not follow the prohibition law. I merely state what is a fact.

"I merely express the hope they will be honest men and vote their convictions."

She declared that bootleggers have contributed to the financial troubles of the nation by hoarding two billions of dollars fearing their use of banks would expose them to the income tax law.

DRYS CAUGHT NAPPING

Representative McCormack (Dem.), of Massachusetts, made an appeal for the adoption of the amendment.

Backers of the admendment had little hope of adoption, but they caught many drys unaware. When the debate started less than 200 members were on the floor, most of them anti-prohibitionists, and Blanton declared the dry foes had "stacked" the House.

Dry leaders sent out frantic appeals for members while the debate proceeded with a vote imminent at any time, McCormack said.

"If Congress wanted to carry out the wish of the people they would vote to modify the Volstead act in 10 days.

"We need new industries to absorb unemployment and this is the only new windustry I see on the horizon."

QUOTES WOODCOCK

Representative William F. Hull (Rep.), of Illinois, told the House Prohibition Director Woodcock estimated that 35,000,000 barrels of beer are now being made illegally. Hull said:

"This has ceased to be a wet and dry question; it is an economic question.

"Do you want bootleggers to continue or are you going to open breweries, furnish employment and a market for the grain o the farmers?"

Representative Olive (Dem.) of New York brought laughter from the anti-drys when he said the drys would have to balance the budget if the beer amendment fails. He said:

"This nation will no longer permit prohibition to finance crime will no longer permit prohibition to cause a treasury deficit."

Oliver urged the drys "to be patriotic and sacrifice their views to provide a method of revenue for the government."

Representative Dyer (Rep.), of Missouri argued that 2.75 per cent beer is non-intoxicating and therefore is constitutional.

STUDY EXCISE TAXES

Meanwhile with the manufacturers' sales tax defeated, the House Ways and Means Committee today decided to recommend several hundred million dollars in special excise taxes to make up the loss. The committee named a sub-committee which will frame the new program by Monday, Crisp said.

"We will report a program to balance the budget."

The special tax proposals may range from $600,000,000 to $700,000,000. With defeat of the manufacturers' tax, which originally was expected to raise $595,000,000 annually, the committee will propose a reduction of some of the special taxes remaining in the bill.

The committee will recommend a reduction of a proposed tax of four cents a gallon on lubricating oil as a result of the sales tax defeat. Crisp said the levy would be unfair under the circumstances.

LaGUARDIA PLAN

At the same time a revised tax increase program, put forward by Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, a leader of the opposition to the sales tax, included these levies:

Safety deposit vaults, $5,000,000; stamp tax on contracts, etc., $10,000,000; stamp tax on receipts, etc., $25,000,000; bond farmer tax, $10,000,000; radios and phonographs, 5 per cent on sales, $30,000,000; radio advertising, 5 per cent, $5,000,000; cosmetics, perfumes, 5 per cent, $15,000,000; corporation registration, $50,000,000; automobiles, trucks and accessories, 2½, 1½ and 2 per cent on retail sales, $80,000,000; articles, etc., 5 per cent, $20,000,000; income tax normal (already voted), $20,000,000; postage one cent boost first class, $135,000,000; stock transfers and short sales, $180,000,000.

In his revised plan LaGuardia raised the automobile tax originally proposed by him by making the rates apply to retail instead of wholesale prices.

'CREDIT POOL' CALLED NOT VOLUNTARY

Organized on Assurance Of Hoover to Take Over Work Later, Banker Says

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—A statement that formation of the National Credit Corporation last October was not "voluntary," but was undertaken on the assurance of President Hoover that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be formed to take over its work was made before the Senate Banking Committee today by Percy H. Johnston, president of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company, New York.

The statement was made during hearings on the Glass banking revision bill when Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, recalled the contribution of leading banks to the National Credit Corporation fund to aid smaller banks and used the word "voluntary."

NOT VOLUNTARY

Johnston, who opposed the Glass bill, replied that he would not describe the action as voluntary. He added:

I was in that conference at Secretary Mellon's home. President Hoover told us he had talked to leaders in Congress and that as soon as Congress met it would form the Reconstruction Corporation to take us out of this position."

Senator Glass asked:

"Then you didn't do it voluntarily?"

Johnson replied:

"We were asked to do it on that basis as a quick stop gap and we did it."

Earlier he had opposed the Glass bill saying its passage now would destroy all effect of the remedial measures looking to an end of deflation.

TREASURY 'HANDICAP'

Johnston asserted the penalization of 15-day borrowings from Federal Reserve banks would make United States bonds less desirable, would handicap the United States Treasury in its necessary financing and would increase the interest rate on governments and thereby the interest rate on all classes of securities, and depreciate the market value of all existing securities."

This was promptly challenged by Senators Glass and Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio.

Glass asserted the 15-day provision is necessary to keep Federal Reserve funds from going into stock market speculation, as he maintains it did in enormous amounts prior to the 1929 crash.

Buckley said that now is the time to prevent a repetition of that experience.

Buckley said.

"The fire has pretty well died down now."

Senator Glass cut in:

"You don't want it to burn up the place do you?"

Johnston said:

"I think any major changes in the Federal Reserve law would be much better if made at some other time."

MANCHU STATE WILL PASS ON 'OPEN DOOR'

Independent Government, Backed by Japan, Reveals Plan to Revise Doctrine

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 25.—The new independent Manchurian government from now on will take into its own hands execution of the "open door" policy in Manchuria and will revise that doctrine to fit present conditions.

This was revealed to International News Service today in the first interview given an American correspondent by Shieh Chuen-Shih, foreign minister of the Japanese-inspired state. Shieh declared:

"It is true that up until now the meaning of the open door policy has been decided among foreign nations themselves but with the creation of Manchuria as a seperate country it becomes our right to give our own definition and interpretation of this policy."

RECIPROCITY PRINCIPLE

However, the foreign minister stated that his country promised to avoid unfair discriminations in its international policies. Among these is a decision to adopt the principle of reciprocity.

This simply means favoring other nations according to the way they treat Manchuria, Shieh said, and inferred that this principle would influence its interpretation of the "open door."

The United States, which led in the drawing up of the "open door" policy in China and has since been one of its chief defenders, is commercially and historically in close contact with Manchuria.

Japan was not mentioned throughout the interview, but the unmistakable impression was given that whatever the young state does, it must take into consideration Japan's special position in Manchuria and must act accordingly, doing nothing without Japanese approval.

SENATE DRY ACT HEARINGS SET

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, today announced hearings would be opened on April 14, by a Senate judiciary sub-committee on proposals for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

There are half a score of measures pending proposing various prohibition changes. Lengthy hearings are in prospect, but Blaine gave assurance that the committee would conclude in time to permit a Senate vote.

Chairman Norris, of the Judiciary Committee, also gave consent to requests of the anti-prohibitionists for a report on the legislation to the Senate. The report doubtless will be adverse, the prohibitionists claiming full command in the Senate.

Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, will seek action next week by the Manufacturers' Committee on his bill to authorize 4 per cent beer.

FEAR NEW OHIO MINE STRIFE

ATHENS, O., March 25.—(INS.)—Tense and foreboding calm reigned over the Hocking Valley today as striking miners and operators waited for each other to make the next move.

Operators went forward with their plans to reopen the mines next week, a move which is expected to culminate in a resumption of the disorders which have broken out through the area, with two bombings last week and reported machine gun sniping in the Bellaire region.

Easter Truce Marks Anthracite Strike

WILKES-BARRE, March 25.—(AP)—A four-day truce began today in the anthracite strike, with most operations closed from Good Friday through Easter Sunday in accordance with a long-standing custom.

Meanwhile John Dusick, of Shamokin, strike leader in District 9, continued his efforts to have state troopers withdrawn from the region. Gov. Pinchot, however, has held the troopers necessary to safeguard the strikers as well as the workers and has declined to withdraw them.

Bomb Miner's Home In Pittston Field

SCRANTON, Pa., March 25.—(AP)—Another dynamiting believed by police to have been the work of striking anthracite miners occurred late last night when four sticks of the explosive were set off alongside the home of Charles Labashinski, of Inkerman. Labashinski was in Pittston at the time, but his wife and daughter, who were in the house, suffered from shock.

Truce in China By Easter Unlikely

SHANGHAI, March 25.—(Universal)—Chinese and Japanese peace delegates this morning resumed their attempts to transform their present informal truce into a definite Easter armistice and again officially announced "some progress."

Doubt was expressed that an agreement could be reached by Saturday evening. The Japanese insist that there is no real cessation of hostilities as long as Chinese snipers continue to take pot shots at the Japanese. The Chinese contend they are not responsible for lawbreaking individuals who make private war.

NANKING, March 25.—(AP)—Rumors that Col. Wang Ken, Chinese army officer and West Point graduate, had been executed were definitely set at rest tonight when the Colonel arrived at Hunshan under military surveillance. He was held at the headquarters of the Nanking police. Col. Wang was detained at the request of Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai for investigation of charges that I had given military information to the enemy.

DELAY SEIZING LEVINE BAIL

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine, first trans-Atlantic airplane passenger, failed to appear today for his trial on charges of grand larceny, forgery and receiving stolen property. His bail of $10,000 was ordered forfeited.

Execution of the bail forfeiture, however, was postponed until April 8 after the court was shown a physician's affidavit setting forth that Levine was suffering from a broken leg and could not be moved. Levine has been sought for many months on a charge that he obtained a loan by using stolen bonds as security. He was found in a sanitarium last month, registered under another name and suffering from a broken leg. A few days ago he was indicted.

Merger of 3 Companies Proposed to Save Opera

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—The New York American says a merger of the Metropolitan Opera, the Chicago Civic Opera and the Philadelphia Grand Opera company to co-operate with Radio City is contemplated to safeguard the future of the art in America.

Such a possibility is given credence, the paper said, by the presence at Wednesday's meeting of the Metropolitan Opera board of Herbert Witherspoon, artistic director of the Chicago company, representatives of the Philadelphia Opera and Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric Company.

The Metropolitan has announced the continuance of grand opera in New York is endangered by heavy losses during the current season, which have wiped out its $500,000 capital and most of its reserves.

101-Ranch Head Arraigned In Shooting Case

NEWKIRK, Okla., March 25.—(AP)—Col. Zack Miller, last of the founders of the famed Miller brothers' 101-Ranch, was arraigned in County Court today on a charge of "assault with a dangerous weapon" and his preliminary hearing set for April 15.

The colorful rancher and showman came at odds with the law yesterday when he fired a shotgun at the heels of one of two attorneys for Fred C. Clarke, receiver, in charge of an auction of the personal property of the ranch. The charge was filed early today.

Friends furnished bonds totaling $16,000 for Miller's release.

Haggard and worried but calm after his armed protest of the auction, which he termed "legal robbery," Miller appeared to be in a rather serious physical condition.

He remained at the ranch last night after his arrest, with Bruce Potter, county attorney, and Potter's brother, Paul. Paul Potter said that examination of the shell fired by Miller while Neal Sullivan and W. O. Wilson, attorneys, were at the ranch "White House" to discuss the auction sale, revealed it had contained buckshot instead of birdshot as previously reported.

Meanwhile, the last of four foreclosure suits against the ranch lands was postponed until April 13. Former Gov. Henry S. Johnston, chief counsel for Miller, disclosed that plans for refinancing the ranch through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were under way.

Three foreclosure cases against the Miller property have been lost by the ranchman. The fourth case, that of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Boston, had been postponed twice prior to today's delay. In this case both Miller and his divorced wife intervened to claim their right to the homestead site involved.

CLAIMS BASED ON ELOPEMENT OF SERVANT

Grave Pointed Out to Link Group to N. Y. Recluses Who Left $100,000,000

At least 100 persons in the Pittsburgh district will seek a share of the $100,000,000 estate of the Wendel sisters, famous New York recluse spinsters, Attorney Harry I. Miller said today.

These men and women, Miller said, believe they are the direct descendants of Mary Wendel Hickey, aunt of the sisters, Ella and Rebecca, who the last of their line, according to their will, bequeathed the entire estate to charity.

It is their contention that Mary Wendel late in the eighteenth century eloped with a family coachman said to be James Hickey, and came to Butler, to what is now known as the Hickey farm on Big Deer Run road near Yunkers Mill, now an ancient landmark.

WILL PRESS CLAIMS

Miller said he would take immediate steps to lay his clients' claims before the New York courts as the result of a meeting in his office, attended by more than 30 persons, representing the 100 or more supposed heirs.

The claims will be filed along with those of 1,500 other persons, represented by 250 attorneys, who already are seeking portions of the huge estate.

RECALLS VISIT TO GRAVE

It was Wise who told Attorney Miller of his mother taking him to the grave of her grandmother, Mary Wendel Hickey, in Henderson Cemetery, at Red Raven.

The grave, Wise insists, is still there, with a stone marker still showing portions of the inscription: "Mary Wendel, wife of James Hickey, died 1810."

Wise believes he is a third cousin of the spinster whose eccentric characteristics, chief of which was their determination to live in their family homestead while New York's business section grew and towered around, make them famous throughout the country.

CLAIMANTS LISTED

William Hickey, Springdale; Mrs. Myrtle Hickey Hill, Cheswick; Mrs. Margaret Hickey Powell, Cheswick; Allen B. Hickey, Cheswick; Charles B. Rome Becomes 'Dead City' As Throngs Flock to Good Friday Shrines

ROME, March 25.—(AP.)—Prone at the altars of Rome's 400 churches, black-robed Catholic priests today commemorated Good Friday, the anniversary of the death of Christ.

In America, Europe, Asia and Africa, priests and bishops and churchmen of the highest rank prostrated themselves at that point in the ritual which recorded the death of the Saviour.

Processions of the faithful here went this morning to the churches of St. Peter's, St. John's and Holy Cross, where relics of Christ's passion and death were on display.

HOLY STAIRS CROWDED

Thousands crowded the holy stairs next to St. John Lateran Church. These they believed were the stairs Christ ascended in Pontius Pilate's house after He had been crowned with thorns. Tradition has it that St. Helena, mother of the first Christian emperor of Rome, Constantine, brought them to Rome from Jerusalem.

The worshipers ascended the steps only on their knees, stopping on each step to recite a prayer. At the top of the stairs they knelt before a little chapel containing a painting of Christ supposed to have been made by St. Luke on wood.

Organs and church bells were silent today. Principal parts of the masses were announced to the congregations by wooden clappers shaken by altar boys. At one point in the ceremonies, priests took off their shoes, knelt and kissed a large crucifix on the altar steps.

ROME LIKE DEAD CITY

Between noon and 3 p. m., the hours when Christ hung on the cross, Rome was like a dead city, most everyone being either at church or at home.

In Trapani, Sicily, in accordance with an ancient custom, there were carried through the streets in an enormous procession 20 life-sized carved wood statues of the characters in Christ's Passion. They were more than 300 years old, and represented the sixteenth century instead of Biblical times.

Tonight all theaters, movies and dance halls throughout Italy will be closed.

Car With Portraits Of Notables Stolen

CHICAGO, March 25.—(AP.)—The thief who stole the automobile of William Levy, business manager for Herman Pearlman, Washington artist, will find himself surrounded by many famous faces.

For Levy reported to the police today the car contained portraits by Pearlman of Mahatma Gandhi, President Hoover, Al Smith, Mayor James Walker of New York, Senator William E. Borah and other public figures, which he planned to exhibit here.

France Proposes Huge Jobless Fund

PARIS, March 25.—(AP.)—The Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee today approved a $139,000,000 bond issue for public works to aid the unemployed.

TORNADO DEATH LIST GROWS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 25.—(AP.)—The gravity of the South's tornado aftermath became more apparent today as field workers for relief forces discovered additional dead, injured and homeless.

C. H. MacFarland, American Red Cross field director for North Alabama, said the devastation brought about by the storms in five southern states early this week had been "vastly underestimated" and announced establishment of central relief headquarters here.

The new set-up, he explained, will handle relief and rehabilitation operations in 13 Alabama counties, 10 in Georgia and six in Tennessee, the states hardest hit. Maurice Reddy, assistant director of disaster relief for the Red Cross, has been called here from Washington to direct the work.

'What-a-Man' Freed In Suitcase Pawning

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—(INS.)—Charles (What-a-Man) Hudson, husband of "Ma" Kennedy, the mother of Aimee McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, had taken a suitcase from Mrs. Arlene Bordeaux, of San Pedro, and had pawned it in Seattle, today were dismissed by the city prosecutor.

Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson defended her new husband.

CRASHES PLANE, PROVES SAFETY

GRASSE, France, March 25.—(AP.)—A French inventor, Albert Sauvant, evaded police long enough today to crack up purposely in his "crash-proof" airplane and was alive today to pronounce it a success.

Sauvant has long been trying to test his ship modeled on a strange shock-absorbing theory, but every time he tried to ride it into a nose dive, the police interfered to keep him from "committing suicide."

Yesterday he secretly took the plane to a cliff at Escragnolles, 18 miles from here, and had himself pushed off to the ground, 150 feet below.

The big fuselage dropped like a plumme, and was demolished, but the 28-year-old Sauvant emerged smilingly from the debris, unhurt and, to his notion, vindicated in his five years of experimental work.

The principle of Sauvant's plane is a carefully guarded secret so far as it applies to mechanical operation, but Sauvant willingly explained how he got the idea. It originated in a physics experiment with two eggs, an ostrich egg and a hen's egg placed inside—and there's quite a trick to this in itself.

Thus arranged, the two eggs may be dropped. The ostrich egg will break, but the inner hen's egg will remain intact. Sauvant's plane has a shock-absorbing device in the fuselage filled with oil.

40 Fishermen Saved From Lake Ice Floe

OSHKOSH, Wis., March 25.—(INS.)—Forty fishermen, who were marooned on a large, honeycombed ice floe in Lark Winnebago, near here, were recovering today after their rescue during a furious snow and windstorm. The fishermen were periled when the mass of ice, through which they were fishing, broke from shore. They were brought back to shore by a rescue squad which made several trips to the floe in a small boat.

PLANE SHUNNED BY MRS. BIDDLE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 25.—(AP.)—Choosing the overland route by dog team rather than the air, Mrs. Edward W. Biddle, Philadelphia society woman, today awaited the pleasure of the elements and Mike Cooney, veteran dog musher, before starting the 200-mile trip from Kantishna to Nenana.

Mrs. Biddle went to visit one of the North's famous characters, Fanny Quigley, on an upper tributary of the Kantishna River, January 12 and was forced to remain more than two months because of snow and poor trails.

Yesterday she refused the luxury of a two-hour flight on a mail plane from her winter prison, preferring instead at least five days on the trail with a dog team.

The Philadelphian, who is gathering material for a book, said she expected to leave Kantishna with Cooney in two or three days, but if there is continued delay she will fly out next week when the regular mail plane stops at the isolated settlement.

PLAYMATES AID DOG BURIAL

"Pard," constant companion and playmate of Buddy for four years, was killed yesterday morning. As was his custom Buddy rode on the running board of the automobile of his father, Bert H. Fisher, as he left for work, with "Pard" dashing and barking back and forth around the car. The dog became confused, fell in front of the car and was run over. "Pard" died in the street at the feet of his master.

Foreign Debt Situation Unchanged, Mellon Says After Congress Visit

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP.)—Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador to Great Britain, told newspapermen today he had no "knowledge of any change" in the foreign debt situation.

Leaving the chambers of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, where the former Treasury head was received and tendered the best wishes of this group in his new post, Mellon was questioned by newspapermen.

"Do you think Europe will pay us any debt this year?"

Mellon responded quickly, with a smile:

"You know as much about that as I do."

He said in response to another inquiry:

"I have no knowledge of any change in the situation and see no likihood of any change at the present time."

Mellon was accompanied by David Finley, who was his special assistant at the Treasury and will go with him to London.

The Ambassador said he expected to leave Washington next Tuesday and sail from New York about April 1.

Mellon seemed in excellent spirits. He made a short talk to the committee behind closed doors, was applauded and then posed with the group for photographs.

Requested to shake hands with Chairman Linthicum by the photographers and to hold this pose for several minutes, he remarked to the Marylander:

"You seem to be accustomed to holding hands."

He also related to Linthicum how, when returning from Europe last summer and posing for pictures in the same manner, a flashlight bulb had exploded and cut his hand.

Linthicum said later Mellon had not talked business, but that the committee had invited him to come because it was endeavoring "to become better acquainted with our foreign representatives."

Mellon Struggles With Baggage, Questions

Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday last night by quitting his Pittsburgh home for Washington, en route to London, where he is to be the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Alone, and traveling in the stateroom of a regular Pullman car, Mellon struggled with his own luggage as he expressed a wish to avoid the spotlight of publicity. In his shirt sleeves, collar off and shirt open, the former Secretary said:

"I can't understand why I should be expected to say anything. I talked to the newspapers when I came. I have no statement to make now. I'd like to help the papers, but what can I say?"

He tugged for a moment with the catch on an overnight bag, which he finally closed by sitting upon the lid, and answered a question:

"Knee breeches at court? Please don't make me talk about such silly things!"

Mellon said he expected to sail for London April 1, or perhaps a day or two before, after winding up his affairs in Washington.

Mother Reinstated As Caruso Guardian

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP.)—Enrico Caruso's widow, Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Ingram, was reinstated yesterday as general guardian for their 12-year-old daughter, Gloria.

Surrogate James Foley had removed Mrs. Ingram on the grounds that she had not filed an accounting for 1930 of the properties left to the child by her father.

In her answer the mother stated that she and Gloria were residents of Cannes, France, and that the child owned no property in the United States. The removal order was then vacated.

IRELAND FEARS RIOTING ON EASTER

15,000 in Republican Army To March at Rites for Martyrs: Rioting Likely

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

DUBLIN, March 25.—In more than 100 cities and villages throughout 26 counties Irish Republicans have arranged elaborate parades, memorial services and mass meetings for Sunday in commemoration of the sixteenth anniversary of the Easter rebellion, when the British executed 16 Republicans.

Approximately 15,000 members of the Irish Republican army will be on parade and, while it has been denied they will bear arms, the Irish Free State police have taken extraordinary precautions to counteract expected trouble.

The seriousness of the situation was acknowledged by one high government official in the following statement to International News Service:

"As much as I regret it, clashes will occur, and probably with loss of life. We can only hope to keep them down to a minimum."

RITES FOR MARTYRS

Impressive services have been arranged for cemeteries throughout the country where Irish Republican patriots lie buried.

Mass meetings have been scheduled for practically every hamlet. Among the most prominent speakers will be those radicals released from prison in the first official act of Eamonn De Valera, new president of the Free State executive government. These men were imprisoned during the regime of William T. Cosgrave as president.

All are rabid members of the Irish Republican army, the Saor Eire and other extremist organizations, and, while the majority will denounce Great Britain and Cosgrave's party, others allegedly opposed to immediate independence are violently anti-Catholic.

ANTI-CATHOLIC DRIVE

Consequently some are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity to launch a more intensive and more open anti-Catholic campaign which inevitably will lead to trouble, it was held.

The danger of violence was held to be greatest along the Ulster border where clashes were not at all unlikely, the situation being the more tense in view of the Anglo-Irish crisis over the oath to the King.

Ulster has banned demonstrations of all sort, and has ordered special border guards in anticipation of trouble.

President De Valera announced last night after a special two-hour meeting of the executive council that no government statement would be made for the present, either on the text of the British note or on the Free State's stand.

REPLY DELAYED

No action along either of these lines was expected immediately, and possibly not before Tuesday. It was apparent De Valera planned to proceed cautiously.

The Republican president's determination to push his fight remained firm, however, and only his method remained open to conjecture.

It was certain he would have the support of the Irish Labor party, holding the balance of power in the Dail, William Norton, leader of the Laborites, told International News Service that his party "always has been and always will be against the oath."

Cutter Dispatched To Crippled Ship

NORFOLK, Va., March 25.—(AP.)—The steamer Yvonne Joanne was reported in a wireless message to Coast Guard headquarters here last night as being disabled about 400 miles due east of the Virginia Capes.

A CONFERENCE: SOME OF THE 100 PITTSBURGHERS SEEKING THE BIG WENDEL ESTATE

Izetta Jewel Miller Faces Jail in Contempt Case

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 25.—(AP.)—The threat of a jail term today hung over Mrs. Izetta Jewel Miller, one-time musical comedy singer and now head of the Municipal Welfare Bureau, as a Supreme Court justice heard argument on an order to show cause why she should not be held in contempt of court.

Mrs. Miller, who, at the Democratic national convention in 1924, seconded the nomination of John W. Davis for president, is charged with having failed to reinstate a woman investigator in the welfare bureau in accordance with an order to Supreme Court Justice Christopher J. Heffernan.

Justice Heffernan was told that a hearing was to be held by the Welfare Bureau on charges on which the investigator, Miss Frances Rexford, had been removed. Justice Heffernan said:

"There will be no hearing and if Mrs. Miller or any one else attempts to hold such a hearing she will go to jail."

The case will be concluded Monday.

Mrs. Miller, the wife of a Union College professor, formerly lived in West Virginia and while there ran for the United States Senate.

Bannister on Way to Reno, Ann Harding Keeps Baby

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—(INS.)—Harry Bannister, $75,000-a-year actor who tired of being known as "Mr. Ann Harding," today planned to establish a residence at Reno, Nev., to divorce Miss Harding, the wealthy film actress.

The couple separated and announced that Bannister, the actor, was losing his identity under the radiance of Miss Harding's career as a film actress.

With a property settlement effected, it was known that Miss Harding would retain custody of their daughter, Jane, who will be 4 years old in June.

Bannister, missing from the palatial estate he and Miss Harding occupied atop the Holywood hills today, was believed en route to Reno.

Hollywood recalled that Jaime Del Rio, tiring of being known as "Mr. Dolores Del Rio," deserted his beautiful actress wife and died in Europe. Dolores now is Mrs. Cedric Gibbons.

Nancy Carroll and James Kirkland, a newspaper man, were happy before she attained stardom, after which they were divorced and she married Bolton Mallory.

Friends of Miss Harding and Bannister today hoped he would attain great success on the New York stage and become reconciled with Miss Harding, who now commands her own salary in motion pictures.

RUM RUNNER NAMES LINDY SUSPECT

to representatives of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

"I am 100 per cent positive of the identification of both men."

So said International News Service's informer. Before he was shown the photographs he insisted he would not make any identification unless he was absolutely sure.

BOOTLEGGERS HIGHWAY

The rum runner who made the identifications from the pictures pointed out that there is a back road leading almost from Hopewell, N. J., to Cape Charles, Va., which highway is seldom traveled except by bootleggers. He made it clear it would have been easy for the kidnapers to have taken the baby by automobile to a boat docked at Atlantic Highlands in less than 45 minutes.

Here is the rum runner's own story:

"I had no idea the baby had been kidnaped when I was out on the ocean. You see my job is contracting rum running schooners and directing them to ports.

"I had left the shores of New Jersey at 4 in the morning on March 2. I hadn't read any newspapers and didn't know about the kidnaping the night before.

"Well, I was out there on the water looking for a certain schooner. I couldn't find it. But I did run into a three-masted oceangoing schooner. I got up alongside, hailed them, and the fellow I took to be the supercargo called back to me. He was this man."

IDENTIFIES PICTURE

The informer then identified the picture of a man whom the New Jersey police are seeking and whom they have described as a known kidnaper.

"I asked him if he had any liquor aboard and he said no. I could not help but believe him because his boat was riding high on the water, indicating he had no cargo. He did not seem friendly and I pulled away."

The rum runner continued as follows:

"I cruised around for an hour or more. I finally decided to go back to shore. About 25 miles off Atlantic Highlands I sighted a cabin cruiser—one of those 50-foot affairs. It was white, with green trimmings.

"When I got about a quarter of a mile away from it, I saw three men on the deck. One of them was waving a coat as a signal to me. I wasn't sure who it was and was not going to take any unnecessary chances so I circled around for awhile.

"Deciding that these people were really in trouble and it was no trap I drew up alongside.

"There were three men on the deck. One of them stepped forth and acted as the spokesman. He was a swarthy-looking fellow about 35 or 40 years old, medium height and medium size.

POINTS TO PICTURE

The photograph was that of Harry Fleischer, the Detroit gangster.

He was asked:

"Are you certain about this identification?"

"Absolutely. If I was only 99 per cent certain I would not make the identification.

"This man (Fleischer) stood back there with his companion and did none of the talking.

"When I drew up alongside of those fellows I asked: 'What is wrong?' The dark fellow who did all the talking said: 'Our compass is broken. Will you sell us your compass?' I told them I needed my compass, but that if they wanted me to I would board their boat and try and fix their compass.

"The swarthy fellow said 'No, don't come aboard.' With that he drew out a roll of bills and offered me a yard (a $100 bill). I told him I could not sell the compass because I needed it myself and didn't want to get lost on the ocean.

"Suddenly I heard a baby's cry from the cabin. Three times in quick succession the baby cried.

EXCITED BY CRIES

"No sooner had the first cry come than this fellow I was talking to jumped in the entrance of the cabin and pulled shut the sliding top and slammed the doors. He was greatly excited, and so were the other two.

Norfolk Dean Predicts Baby's Early Return

NORFOLK, Va., March 25—(AP.)—Despite official announcement from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, N. J., that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh did not consider information about his kidnaped baby furnished by three Virginians important, one of those informants said today early return of the baby was expected.

The three men who went from here to tell Col. Lindbergh of indications the baby was on a yacht in Chesapeake Bay and would be returned through them are the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and John Hughes Curtis. Dean Dobson-Peacock said:

"We not only hope but expect the completion of negotiations within a few days."

FEARS PUBLICITY

He expressed fear that publicity given the new phase in the famous case might "jeopardize a good clue," but reiterated his belief that all would still turn out satisfactory. He said:

"We had hoped for an early and a happy solution. And such is still our hope."

Denial that Col. Lindbergh considered the information taken him from Virginia important was made today at Hopewell by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey State Police who is in general charge of the police search for the kidnapers. He said he was speaking for Col. Lindbergh.

Dean Dobson-Peacock pointed out that in radio broadcasts from Christ Episcopal Church he had often expressed hope for the safe return of the kidnaped child. He added:

"What I said on those occasions certainly was heard on the Eastern Shore, and as far north as Baltimore."

EVADES QUESTIONS

He would not consent to further questioning along this line.

Dean Dobson-Peacock denied the kidnaped baby was with the go-between during their negotiations with the three Norfolk men. He would not say whether a recent report had been received concerning the safety of the baby.

He added that he was puzzled as to the manner in which the negotiations became public. Negotiations had been conducted with all secrecy here, he said, but apparently became known to Hopewell and Norfolk police.

GUARDS ADMIT FIRING SHOTS IN MINE RIOT

Six Defendants in Arnold City Mine Trial Deny Firing; Case Delayed

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 25.—After six of the nine defendants on trial for the murder of Mike Philipovich in the Arnold City mine strike riot last June had testified they did not fire a shot, Ted Hunt and Roy Ingram, mine guards, on the stand today admitted firing two shots each. Both said their shots struck no one.

Hunt said when he arrived on the scene the strikers became so threatening that he tossed a tear gas bomb into their ranks. He said the strikers retreated around buildings in that vicinity and a short time later four or five shots were fired from the direction of Philipovich's store.

Deputy Ingram testified it was not until he was struck on the head with a brick thrown by the strikers that he drew his revolver. He said that as he started to strike a tear gas bomb he was hit by a brick knocked down and as he came up fired two shots. He said he was positive that the bullets struck no one.

Fate of the nine defendants will not be known until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

DELAY NEAR

Court is to adjourn the present hearing Saturday at noon so that tax cases may be heard. The defense side of the case will not be completed by that time, according to E. C. Higbee, attorney for the nine men.

Ernest Barnes, Jess E. Sisley, Parker Claybaugh, J. W. Fisher, Donald Royston and James Ballermore swore that not once during the three-minute gunplay did they pull the triggers of their revolvers. All swore that the shots came from the ranks of the strikers.

SURPRISE TESTIMONY

A surprise was sprung when Fisher and Royston testified that as Philipovich stood on the porch of his store with his arms folded, he clutched a revolver in his right hand. It was partly hidden by his folded arms. Fisher plainly saw the weapon, he declared and Royston said the object in Philipovich's hand resembled a weapon.

This was the first intimation that the victim of the shooting, who fell with six buckshot in his body, was armed.

Complaint was made to District Attorney Wade K. Newell yesterday that the Pittsburgh Coal Company has withdrawn help from families whose members have appeared as commonwealth witnesses.

FUGITIVE BACK TO SERVE TERM

The long arm of the law today had returned Richard B. Canfield, of North Bessemer, to serve out in the Western Penitentiary the term his escape interrupted. He fled with two other prisoners July 24, 1930, by sliding down a 50-foot rope from a prison tower.

His companions, Ralph Minter, of Johnstown, and Freeland Preston, of North Bessemer, were captured immediately.

Canfield was free nearly two years until arrested in California.

He came back last night in custody of William Gaffney, a parole officer, and Deputy Warden Ray R. Sethers. With him were Tommy Lewis, who escaped from Rockview Penitentiary some time ago, and Daniel Burnhart, a parole violator, arrested in Kansas City.

RETURNING IN FETTERS

PAROLE OFFICER WILLIAM GAFFNEY (LEFT) AND PRISONERS

FIRE DESTROYS BIG DISTILLERY

Flames that sent a glow over the entire northeast section of the city raged for eight hours and three square blocks of factory buildings in one more than an hour. Firemen said they found evidence of incendiary origin. A policeman who discovered the fire said flames seemed to burst from all parts of the main building at once.

A milk wagon driver discovered the body which was identified by police from a badge found in the pocket as that of Charles Anderson 35 of the Bronx.

The badge was issued by Patrick McGovern Inc contractors, whose $47,000,000 contract for the construction of a water tunnel in Brooklyn is under scrutiny by the legislative committee investigating city affairs. MURPHY PUSHES TAX CUT WAR

DETROIT March 25—(INS)—Deadlocked with City Council on his proposal to slash Detroit's budget regardless of all protests and to force tax reductions, Mayor Frank Murphy today insisted he would continue his battle to equalize city expenditures with receipts.

Accusing Murphy of presenting a "trick budget" Council last night unanimously refused to reduce the budget from $76,030,000 to $61,000,000. The Mayor admitted his estimates would not allow functions of the city government to operate as at present but reiterated his challenge that many department expenses can be further reduced.

Reports sent to other cities that Murphy proposed to cancel debts owed bankers by the city were denied. Instead he suggested paying as much as possible to lower interest charges and refunding the balance.

Councilmen threatened to force a special election for the voters to decide on proposed budget reductions.

For unfurred coats with dress-like lines and striking sleeves, are the newest of the new; and they can be so widely varied by a change of neck finish, that one coat can give as much variety as two or three.

The Coat With Animal Scarf

Wearing one of these coats on Easter Sunday is equivalent to carrying a banner that reads, "My coat is new this spring." For the coat with multiple scarf of "small" furs is another of those fashions which has come out this season, to combine smartness with economy . . . Wear the scarf with the coat or with other costumes, and vary the coat by substituting a silk scarf, at will.

Coats With Fox Trimming

This is a spring of animation in fashion, and it is eloquently expressed in coats trimmed with fox, whose fluffiness emphasizes every movement of the wearer.

White fox dyed from pure white, to lovely ivory shade, cedar-rose, platinum gray and Paris blue, and the precious silver fox, trim some of our handsomest coats. Used as horseshoe collars, set-back collars, borders on deep, adjustable fichu collars, as cuffs, and to trim wide, elbow flares.

DRY POLL HERE OVER 5 TO 1 FOR REPEAL

6,904 Favor Prohibition as 37,800 Oppose Statute; National Returns Show

The second returns from Pittsburgh in the Literary Digest's dry law poll shows 37,800 in the city voting for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and 6,904 for its continuance. The Pittsburgh poll is not yet completed.

Thirty-three states are giving more than 1,000 each and seven states are tabulated in the Literary Digest's [illegible] poll, according to the magazine.

The [illegible] forecast an anti-dry [illegible] a combined population of over 68,000,000 people, as enumerated in the latest census figures.

Eight of these states register a vote of more than 4 to 1 in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment.

VOTE FROM 6 MORE STATES

Three [illegible] thirty-two [illegible] are tallied this week in the Literary Digest's referendum, of which 75 per cent or 25 per cent are dry and 25 per cent are wet.

Initial returns are reported from the current tabulation from Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah.

In a statement upon the recent dry testimony in the House of Representatives, The Literary Digest notes that public opinion as reflected in its prohibition poll is decidedly more anti-dry than public opinion as represented by the congressmen who voted on the Beck-Linthicum resolution.

The sixth report in the 1930 Literary Digest prohibition poll, asking three questions instead of two, showed a total tabulation of 3,175,972, of which 915,681, or about 28 per cent, were for enforcement; 951,475, or nearly 30 per cent for modification and 1,308,816 or nearly 41 per cent were for repeal.

Bootlegger Uses Radio to Get Orders

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(INS.)—There was one bootlegger who did not have to canvass or risk his livelihood by taking orders over the telephone. He used a short wave radio set to send and receive orders.

The accused is a local resident and the radio division of the Department of Commerce, which traced his apparatus with radio detectors, said he will not be prosecuted as he promised to dismantle his station.

TWO CONVICTED IN SHAKEDOWN

Attorneys for Justice of the Peace John G. Metz of Kennedy Township and Edward Brubach, former Ben Avon constable, found guilty in Criminal Court last night on shakedown charges today were planning to seek a new trial. The case went to the jury at 3 p. m. after the charge by Judge R. R. Lewis of Potter County.

A verdict was returned shortly after 5 p. m. but was not officially recorded until two hours later, as the jury was sent back three times to correct technical errors in the verdict.

The defendants were charged with having extorted $100 for fixing cases growing out of raids from eight residents of the Ohio Valley.

They were acquitted on two conspiracy counts as well as in extortion charges in connection with two alleged victims. Verdicts of guilty were returned against both jointly and individually in the cases of the other six alleged victims.

Deserted Family Separated in Homes

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 25.—Suffering and hardship of a Centerville mother and her seven children who were deserted a year ago by their father today had been halted by officials.

The eight unfortunates, Mrs. Annie Kosenik and her hungry, half-clothed children were sent to Washington County institutions yesterday. The mother and oldest daughter went to the county home and the six smaller youngsters to the children's home.

P.R.R. Trains Kill Man Near Osborne

Mystery Explosion, Fire Damage House

A blaze which firemen were told was caused by an explosion damaged an unoccupied frame dwelling at 65 Mullooly street, a landmark, early today.

Neighbors told firemen a blast preceded the fire, but Battalion Chief John Frazier reported he found no evidence of an explosion. He estimated the damage at $2,500. The house was being remodeled. Tenants were preparing to move into it today, neighbors said.

2,600 Mill Workers Recalled in District

Approximately 2,600 employes of the American Sheet and Tinplate Company will be recalled to work April 4, it was announced last night.

An order to resume operations at a 66 per cent rated capacity will employ about 1,800 men in the mills at Farrell, and 800 men are to resume work in the Monessen plant, which has been modernized with electrification, a new tin house and docks, according to the announcement.

Rich Son-in-law Of Macfadden Killed

EDINBURG, Tex., March 25.—(AP.)—The blowout of a tire led to the death yesterday of Louis I. Muckerman, wealthy son-in-law of Bernarr Macfadden, publisher.

ENVOY DENIES PARIS DISSENT ON CHINA

Poet-Ambassador, Here on Air Trip, Sees Accord With U. S.; Talks of Taxes

Paul Claudel, poet and ambassador from France to Washington, spent an hour in Pittsburgh last night between airplanes. And most of it was passed in a Bettis Field arm chair, chatting.

France's position on the Japanese-China question, contrast to what appeared to be identical with that of Ex-ambassador the U. S. Senate, vehemently assailed.

Taxes, also the subject of [illegible] voice [illegible] the United States strong [illegible] of taxes, he said:

"In France the most tax-burdened of nations, 30 per cent is the tax—and that, my friend, is not on one thing, but on everything."

KNOWS NO REMEDY

The diplomat's solution for the ills of the world and reparations, whatever they might be, was not spoken. Of the world difficulties, he said:

"I have no remedy. I have just been high in the sky, but not high enough."

He accepted a suggestion concerning reparations and the solution of the French debt to the United States as agreeable. He was asked:

The ambassador chuckled and answered:

"That's good. We are ready to give as much wine as you want."

Questioned about the French sales tax, he said that it is effective there, adding:

"But we French can get along with little—a crust of bread, a glass of wine and a pinch of salt."

STRESSES ACCORD

Particularly interesting to the Japanese-Chinese crisis, since he spent most of his diplomatic life in the Orient, he said:

"Regardless of what has been said, there has never been a shadow of a difference between France, England and the United States in their attitudes, so far as Japan is concerned. But as to the Oriental problem, there always will be one, of course."

As noted in the field of poetry and drama, he is in the diplomatic world, he declared he has been too busy to write.

"I have no plays in mind. I am much too busy. Later, maybe."

Claudel made his brief stop at the Bettis Field airplane station, having left St. Louis yesterday afternoon for Washington. He had been in Chicago, where he went with Secretary of War Patrick Hurley to inspect the site for the French palace to be a part of the exposition. He said:

"Planes I use here as much as possible. In France I used only one—from Berlin to Paris. They are so fast and pleasant."

Candidate Favors Credit Corporation

John B. Sullivan has announced his candidacy as a member of the general assembly from the 8th Legislative District, declaring he favors a state credit corporation, similar to that created by the federal government to save mortgaged homes.

Sullivan said he would support old age pension laws, legislation for a practical and generous appreciation of war veterans, a competent Public Service Commission, with members elected by the people, modernization of the Blue Laws, and strengthening of the election laws.

WIDOW BANNED FROM FUNERAL

Mrs. Sadie Devlin, of Oak Hill, near East Pittsburgh, was refused permission by the Coroner's office today to attend the funeral tomorrow of her husband, Edward, 39, whom she is accused of having shot to death in their home yesterday.

Mrs. Devlin is in jail, pending an inquest Thursday. Services for her husband will be held in St. Coleman's Catholic Church, Turtle Creek.

She told county detectives, they reported, that she fired in a struggle for a revolver after her husband, intoxicated, had struck her with a poker and threatened to shoot her.

Police Hunt Negro Who Beat Woman

Center avenue police today were searching for the Negro who beat Catherine Hays, 21, a Negro, of 2943 Bedford avenue, on the head with a revolver at Bedford avenue and Morgan street last night. The woman, walking in Bedford avenue, was knocked unconscious by the thug, who fled when he saw a pedestrian approaching. The victim was attended at Passavant Hospital.

Registration List Increased by 10,996

The total registration in Pittsburgh now stands at approximately 200,000, the Board of Registration Commissioners announced.

HARRIS RELIEF PLAN RUSHED

York, and how they were being met. He said:

"We have taxed ourselves for the past three years to prevent utter destitution, and likewise to prevent violence. Beneath the gay surface of New York, conditions must be difficult. But the taxation has been a protection both to the people in need and us.

"In Detroit, Mayor Murphy saw a girl of 11 with a babe in her arms, standing in the breadline. He had her taken out and cared for, swearing he would prevent a repetition even if he had to put the city in bankruptcy. He was able to prevent it, and Detroit, by a plan of urging relatives to care for some of the needy, sending back to their homes others who in recent years settled in his city, reduced the number the city was supporting from 500,000 to 150,000. And he almost had the city in bankruptcy."

DESCRIBES RELIEF WORK

Bell, representing the Emergency Association, described the rising tide of relief which, in past weeks, has drawn so heavily upon resources that work has had to be halted and relief ended March 30. He said the $3,000,000 raised in November appeared until the middle of January, to be sufficient, but that unexpected demands from the county made it clear by the latter part of January that the program could not be carried on much farther.

Work projects were created as fast as they could be submitted by engineers but thousands of unemployed men, unfitted for manual labor, had to be given direct assistance. With services of executives and office space donated, the overhead was kept to 2 per cent and approximately half of that amount was accounted for by the employment of clerical help from the ranks of the unemployed at an average of $15 a week. Bell added:

"With the dumping on the Emergency Association of 3,300 families by the Allegheny County Poor Board, the rising curve of relief expenditures was turned into an almost vertical line and subsequent expenditures have been enormous."

PROBLEM INTENSIFIED

Outlying communities which had elected to raise their own relief funds and maintain their independence, finding later that they could not possibly raise enough for the job, were forced to petition the Emergency Association to initiate work projects. This, he explained, intensified the problem. In one community where such a project was created it was found that everyone of the 88 men employed had to have nine dependents or more, a situation typical of the problem which scores of communities in the county are facing.

"The Harris Family-Help-Family Plan, of all those considered by the Emergency Association, impressed us as the only one capable of bringing the chasm for these 28,000 families affected over a period of the next three months.

"Members of the Emergency Association's board feel that the Harris plan is the one thing which offers the slightest possibility of immediate relief, in view of the complexities which face relief movements on the part of the state, county and city governments."

APPEALS FOR HELP

Bell appealed to all those present to lend their help in the campaign and volunteer to see corporations and individuals during the next 10 days to two weeks. Nearly 100 signed up at the meeting, in addition to those who had volunteered earlier.

McGregor, chief of staff in the campaign, praised the plan under way as one which "displays neighborliness." It represents the family idea, he said, as clearly as can be carried out in the complexity of a large city. Emphasizing the seriousness of the situation, he pointed out that 160,000 persons are unemployed, amounting to 10 per cent of the county's population.

Of the remaining 90 per cent, he said, perhaps 25 per cent have been seriously affected, but there are still more than 60 per cent who are fairly secure. These, he declared, must be looked to for help for the destitute families. He added:

"These men who are unemployed are not the type we have been used to in past years—men who never worked unless they had to—but are men who honestly want to work and who can find no jobs."

DISASTER TO CHILDREN

Allderdice shed light on one phase of the problem when he spoke of the effect of the disaster upon school children, the issuance in one week of 11,000 pint bottles of milk to the children.

The invocation was given by the Rev. P. W. Snyder, representing the Council of Churches. Also a speaker was George W. Maxie, Justice of the State Supreme Court.

Members of the advance guard under Allderdice included Thomas S. Arbuthnot, Wilson S. Arbuthnot, Horace P. Baker, Harry E Barney, Joseph Becker, Frank B Bell, W. I. Bickford, J. B. Black, H. V. Report Cites Grave Relief Crisis

cluding campaign expenses and $5,000 contributed to the Harris Family-Help-Family Campaign, was only one and one-third per cent, or $49,950.94. The greater part of this sum paid in wages to clerical workers taken from the ranks of the needy unemployed.

Month by month and week by week the relief needs of Allegheny County have grown. Since early January thousands of families have come to the end of their resources, with the result that the relief burden has grown and is still growing at an astounding rate. This unpredictable increase has now exhausted Emergency Association funds months earlier than had been expected.

On March 15, a total of 27,316 families were receiving support from Emergency Association funds as follows:

Families receiving direct aid:
City of Pittsburgh	10,834
Allegheny County (outside of Pittsburgh)	6,636
Families receiving support from work projects:
City of Pittsburgh	5,142
Allegheny County (outside of Pittsburgh)	4,404
	27,016

FUND FOR 4 WEEKS

The appropriation of $260,000 made by the city government this week will make it possible to care for the 10,834 relief cases now in the city for approximately four weeks longer. If spread over that period, however, it does not provide for any increase in this number, nor for the 5,142 families who have been supported by work projects, discontinued this week because of lack of funds.

In the county outside the city, 6,636 families heretofore depending on direct aid, face hunger unless funds can be found for them at once. The $500,000 fund recently voted by the County Commissioners has been entirely allocated for work projects that will provide work relief for some 4,404 additional families for the next two months only.

It is a duty to make this serious situation clear to every citizen of Allegheny County. At once more than 5,000 destitute families in Pittsburgh and more than 6,600 destitute families in the county outside of Pittsburgh are left without support. Exhaustion of funds provided by city and county governments will leave a total of 15,000 others helpless in from four to eight weeks unless other funds are found in the meantime.

CASH NEEDED AT ONCE

It has been conservatively estimated that more than $15,000,000 must be made available to meet the need during the next 12 months. A substantial part of this sum is needed now, at once, to save people who are our neighbors and fellow citizens from starvation. To meet this need, the Family-Help-Family Campaign, headed by Senator Harris, will appeal to every generous impulse of charity and mercy.

At the most, however, the Family-Help-Family Campaign can provide succor only until even larger sums can be made available. These must come from public bond funds which at the earliest cannot be made available before August or September. The city government has authorized submission of a relief bond issue of $5,000,000 to the voters at the April primary. It can be expended only in the city. Other millions must be provided to meet the need outside the city.

More than in other large American cities, private generosity in Pittsburgh has heard the cry of the destitute and provided food and fuel and shelter.

TAX FUNDS NEEDED

In 81 large cities of the United States for the first nine months of 1931, 70 per cent of funds expended for relief came from tax sources and only 30 per cent from private sources.

In Allegheny County in the year 1931 only 32 per cent of funds expended for relief came from tax sources, while 68 per cent was provided by private gifts.

The time is now at hand when private gifts must be supplemented in large measure by public tax funds in paying which directly or indirectly all may share.

Allegheny County never has failed to meet a crisis bravely. It is inconceivable that it can fail in this.

ANNOUNCE PLAN FOR RELIEF

Relief for the unemployed of Pittsburgh, under the $260,000 emergency appropriation by Council, will begin tomorrow, S. F. Claney, director of relief for the Allegheny County Emergency Association announced today.

Claney said the plan is for unemployed to apply at any one of the social agencies be investigated and then given slips for presentation at one of the five relief stations to be set up at strategic points. There they will redeive order on one of the 3,500 "fair price" stores for groceries or clothing. No cigarets, cakes or luxuries will be given, Claney said.

Maj. J. Clyde Miller, chairman of the County Poor Board, continued conferring today with the board's counsel, Harry W. McIntosh, on the legality and advisability of borrowing an additional $260,000 for relief of families outside of Pittsburgh.

BELL GUILTY, ALLUM JAILED

ERIE, Pa., March 25 (AP).—A jury that deliberated but 10 minutes yesterday convicted Tom Bell, former Fayette County detective, and three others of impersonating federal officers.

Joseph Dawson, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Frank Barchanowicz and Glenn Allum, both of Westmoreland County, convicted with Bell, were sentenced to two years in federal prison. Bell's sentence was deferred. A score of witnesses identified the men as those who extorted money from three Westmoreland County residents and who attempted to shake down another.

Bell recently confessed participation in the slaying of John Donohoe, Fayette County Constable in 1929. He was acquitted of the slaying in 1930.

Bell also is under sentence in a Buffalo extortion case.

DRY CONVICTION IN 'JAKE' SALE

WICHITA, Kan., March 25 (AP).—A conviction under the federal prohibition law has marked the government's initial effort in Kansas to prosecute wholesalers for distribution for beverage purposes of sub-standard extract of Jamaica ginger, which physicians blamed for many cases of paralysis of the limbs two years ago.

Abraham Michaels, of New York, head of the Interstate Drug Company, was found guilty on two counts by a federal jury yesterday.

Several retailers of the sub-standard product are serving sentences. Scores of persons throughout the Southwest were stricken by the paralysis. Some said they drank the extract as a beverage, others that they used it as a medicine.

Judge Richard J. Hopkins said he would pronounce sentence today. Attorneys for the defendant filed a motion for a new trial.

Mate Who Went To Races Stayed Away, Wife Says

Claiming she was deserted when her husband went to the races and failed to return, Mrs. Marie E. Drew, 33, of Fifth avenue, was granted a divorce from Raymond J. Drew, 40, of 306 Chateau street, by Judge George V. Moore, in Common Pleas Court. Drew is employed in the county deed registry office and is said to be the owner of a racing stable.

Mrs. Drew testified they were married July 17, 1913, and have two sons, Raymond, 14, and Thomas, 15. Drew left her July 7, 1928, she said, in this way:

"He was traveling at the time around the racing circuit for his father, and he left on one of these trips. As a rule he was gone a week. He just left, saying he was going to the race track, but he didn't return. Later I called him at the deed registry office, and he said he made up his mind that we were not going to live together and he was not coming back."

ESTEP'S RECORD HIS PLATFORM

Congressman Harry A. Estep has announced his candidacy for another term in the National House of Representatives from the Thirty-third District. Citing his record of service in Washington, Estep said:

"My record of service to the constituents who have honored me with election for three consecutive terms as their representative in Congress, speaks for itself.

"The most important Congress since the World War is now in session. Most of the members, without regard to political affiliations, have met the crisis in a patriotic spirit and legislation has been enacted, or is under consideration, that should do much toward assisting the nation to a return of normalcy.

"The financial stringency has been eased. Appropriations have been slashed, even below budget recommendations. A special economy committee is now planning for reorganization of various departmental bureaus and the budget is in a fair way of being balanced by a new revenue bill.

"I have been proud to participate in this momentous legislative program. Ever since I took my seat in Congress I have made a sincere effort to ascertain sentiment regarding legislation. The result has impressed me that there is a great and guiding wisdom in the collective ideas of the people."

DETROIT, March 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Mooney, 84-year-old mother of Tom Mooney, is under a physician's care in a hospital here. She suffered a heart attack after speaking at a meeting in behalf of her son.

She said she would defy the physician's orders and leave today to keep speaking engagements in Indianapolis and Toledo.

$100,000 BLAZE RAZES CANNERY

ALTOONA, Pa., March 25.—(AP.)—The Elk Canning Company plant at Curwensville was destroyed by fire of unknown origin last night. Loss was estimated by company officials at $100,000.

The blaze had grown to such size when fire companies of Curwensville and Clearfield arrived that they could make no headway in extinguishing it. Three buildings burned. Only the boiler room and a drying shed remain standing.

The canning company has been operating recently, employing 80 men five days a week.

INDEPENDENTS FOR HOME RULE

The four independent Republican candidates for the Legislature from the Twelfth District pledged themselves, if elected, to a joint fight to obtain passage of a "home rule" bill. The bill would permit cities to decide if they want a city manager form of government.

The candidates are E. L. Biadel, of Crafton; H. C. A. Pofacker, of Coraopolis; John R. Herring, of Thirty-second Ward, formerly Overbrook Borough, and R. L. Thompson, of Mt. Lebanon.

Catholic Men End Night-Long Prayer

Thousands of Catholic men in the Pittsburgh diocese this morning concluded an all-night prayer for relief from present economic conditions. In more than 100 Catholic churches the all-night adoration was held. Members of the Holy Name Society participated, with each man praying for at least one-half hour. Notices sent to the members of the organization said:

"May we ask you to pray before the Blessed Sacrament for relief from the misery and want which so many suffer today."

Benning, candidate for State Senator from the Forty-third District, led the Fifth Ward independent forces in the last campaign, Bama stated:

"I am running on the advice of my friends in the Hill district who have long been in need of aggressive representation in the legislative halls such as I feel I can give them if elected."

DARROW BEGINS HAWAII TASK

HONOLULU, T. H., March 25.—(INS.)—Clarence Darrow, attorney, planned a conference today with island attorneys to determine how much time would be needed to prepare the defense for Mrs. Grace Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two naval enlisted men, charged with the "honor slaying" of Joseph Kahahawai, one of five natives accused of attacking Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, Mrs. Thalia Massie.

A large crowd at the dock welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Darrow on their arrival from San Francisco.

Darrow said he probably would ask the Territorial Court today to postpone the trial date from March 28 to April 4. He intimated the defense plea would be based on the "unwritten law."

Darrow condemned the territorial penalty which demands death for criminal attackers on the ground that it encourages the assailant to murder his victim to destroy all possibility of evidence against him.

Darrow ascertained that public opinion was divided sharply for and against acquittal of the four defendants.

'AGONY SERVICE' DRAWS THRONG

The "agony service," one seldom heard in the United States outside of Pittsburgh, was observed today at Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church. The service symbolizes the three hours of agony which Jesus Christ endured while on the cross. It is observed every year at the Pittsburgh church on Good Friday.

Beginning at noon the service continued until 3 o'clock and ended with a tableaux, showing Christ on the Cross. The Rev. James R. Cox officiated, assisted by the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, head of the Parochial schools, and the Rev. A. J. Zapora, assistant priest of Old St. Patrick's. The sermon was divided, Father Cox and Father Campbell speaking on "The Seven Last Words."

The large church was crowded, people coming from all parts of the city. Many in the pews were homeless men from "Shantytown."

Child's Plea Stays Execution of Father

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 25.—(AP.)—The plea of a 10-year-old child that Gov. Ibra Blackwood "give my daddy life" has given O. F. S. Howell, of Sumter, 20 more days to live.

Howell was sentenced to die in the electric chair April 8, for killing E. Hart Williams, filling station operator. Howell's daughter, Gladys, here to visit her father in the state penitentiary, appeared before the Governor and was granted her plea for clemency.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Very amusing story, at that. I mean the one that happened last week in New Jersey, where most of the baddies are really bush. . . . Four of them were gathered in their hide-out plotting things. . . . When in strode a coke-fiend—revolver in a shaky paw—and pointed the gat at them. . . . Reach for the skies! he commanded as his voice and hands trembled. . . . And they almost touched the ceiling getting them up in the prompt manner. . . . Then he ordered one of the foursome to unravel the jeans of his comrades as well as his own—and after the coin—$400 —had been deposited on a table the chaired airman swept up the loot and motored away. . . . New Jersey is a difficult state to scram from, what with all those inlets. . . . It's like being marooned on an island when your cabin flash went to the sea-dormies for the first order. . . . To keep the bridges lifted. . . . And so the robber was rounded with an hour in a small town and held until his victims came to identify him. . . . When they arrived—they told the officer that the arrested one was not the bandit although he was—but they wanted the police to release him so they could get back their coin and thrash the life out of him. . . .

And so when they failed to identify him he was let go and his victims rode away with him. . . . Then after beating him in the most thorough manner they searched him for their money and found only $8. . . . Which cut $400 one of the bottomed-up outlaws cried. . . . This is what I've been trying to tell you, he gasped. Those cops robbed me. . . .

Rev. J. McCaddell is now lecturing. . . . Wonder why that noted attorney keeps writing me that he knows who killed Elwell? . . . When I finally met him and asked: Will tell me who? he kept shaking his dome in the weirdest manner and only hinted a friend of Elwell's. . . . All of which is nothing whittled down to a point. . . . What can be interesting in seeing that secret door? . . . I mean the one at Gimbel's Park at the old Tilden Mansion, now the National Arts Club. . . . Where they tell you there's a hidden passageway through which old Gov. Sam Tilden used to make his getaway when Tweed's assassins came to kill him. . . . Wonder how many people know that their handwriting is a waste of time? . . . And that all you do when their most secret partnership papers fly out is sweep them discreetly out to the flood.

Incidentally, despite the reporters' tongue-in-cheek stories when . . . are you-should-shoots. . . . The story about the Zanfield chorine in Boston. . . . That was 3 years ago. . . . And because she gave him so much of the air he demanded she pay back what he spent on gifts for her. . . . Being a good sport she had him itemize the gifts which came to $125—so she handed him an I. O. U. for the sum, promising to pay it when she could. . . . But he wouldn't wait—so he is suing for the $125 plus the interest of three years. . . . Wonder what a customer thinks about in the Greensboro, N. C., barber shop manned by women? . . . What a waste of money that is. . . . I mean in the Hotel Continental. . . . Which they used for only a few seconds such players as Hal Skelly, Taylor Holmes, Ros Atwell, Jefferson De Angelis, Willard Mack and Frank Conlan, all of whom were well paid but not overtaxed. . . . Odd name for an out-and-run place: The Sip 'n' Stroll.

Interesting note on how speakeasy cards and announcements stem. . . . Especially if in postcard form. . . . They are mailed from New Jersey or outside of New York because the local post-office inspectors have orders to report from where they're mailed in town. . . . Too bad about Frank Tinnerhill who got weary of waiting for the bottled breaks and went to his heaven. . . . The text that a fine time to offer came in the mail. . . . Talk about diners and a fine time to offer came in the mail. . . . Talk about diners and things and people and happenings like the 16th floor of a West 47th St. restaurant. . . . It has an office world feel square, but no windows. . . . Yet four booths are tiled in real earth with a desk and stools a heavy trade in humanity. . . . The waiter who broke 6 dishes last shaved. . . . One had lost a fortune in it trying to go straight. . . . He is certainly a tool about which is less than genius he says. . . . And La Gilman says that she prefers appearing in theatres of town, theatres where the acoustics are so good she can hear the people in the rear rows talking about her.

Of all critical duties? . . . In Syracuse they would have the brave who was tapped that a critical house limit ordinance the Lindbergh kind. . . . He is explained the mayor. . . . This is Police Headquarters, he said. . . . We have a law that you're looking for Lindbergh kids there. Is that true? . . . The mayor on the other end said: Sure I am. . . . The cop who has mistaken explained. . . . Thanks very much, and hung up. . . . The academic remained closed. . . . A newspaperman decided that something ought to be done about it. . . . He investigated thoroughly and learned that no policemen had even visited the spot. . . . Reminds me of the time vaude-ville was funniest because Duffy and Sweeney were in it. . . . And after doing a bit of their act they both would get weary and lie down under the piano. . . . "How about doing the show?" Sweeney would indifferently say to Duffy. . . . "Let's phone it in!" was the retort between yawns. . . . I like Editor Gobo's suggestion—a new word: "Hamitator," combining "ham" and "imitator."

Well, there is this comforting thought about the new income tax rate. . . . Think of all the fun there must be in being out of work and not having to pay it! . . . Wish I could sing "Rockin' Chair" the way Mildred Bailey sings it. . . . Paul Whiteman might have thinned down in a year from 300 to 180 but he looks too frail. . . . Wonder what Ziegfeld meant to say in his last day letter. . . . Gershwin's "Watergreen For President!" is plenty contagious. . . . Wish I could be in Hollywood for a while. . . . To see if it is like Mary Pickford said. . . . No wild parties and not much fun. . . . That would be dandy—even fun becomes monotonous. . . . Funny about that cut who cornered Hellinger in that W. 3d St. place. . . . And sassed him. . . . Who me? queried Mark dazed from this and that. . . . Then shrugging his shoulders Mark mumbled: "Don't even know him—he must be crazy." . . . And as the drunk staggered away he said to a comrade: I've been waiting for years to tell that Winchell that! . . . Wonder what time it is in Syria? . . . Well, I'm glad I found out why people click glasses. . . . It's an old Germ custom significant of the fact that you're alive. You can see a drink, feel a drink, smell a drink and taste a drink, but you can't beat a drink. . . . Therefore the click.

Malone, both of Pittsburgh, yesterday pleaded not guilty to indictments charging robbery, first degree, in connection with the holdup of two Buffalo stores in 1930. The indictments were returned by an Erie County grand jury earlier in the day.

HOLLYWOOD LIFE :-: Keeping an Eye on Stage and Screen :-: THEATER NEWS

Miss Del Rio Will Play American

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.

After "The Bird of Paradise" you'll be seeing Dolores Del Rio in a modern story with an American background.

David Selznick, boss of R. K. O., figures that Dolores has played enough foreign heroines. She was a Mexican girl in The Dove and will be an island beauty in The Bird of Paradise.

To catch some of that personality that makes even blase Hollywood turn and stare at Dolores at parties and at premieres the young producer has assigned Adela Rogers Hyland and Gene Fowler to write an original story for the Mexican star's picture.

While there is no intent to make her a clothes-horse, the film will give Dolores an opportunity to wear smart gowns of the latest mode.

I'll wager you can't remember her in this type of role on the screen. In fact as far as I know she has played only one and that in her first picture in Hollywood. She was a siren in an early Dorothy Mackaill vehicle. Charlie I believe it was.

HERE'S Gossip

Welton Herbert, whose real name incidentally is Welton Herbert Franks, has taken a house at the beach. If that marriage to Greta Nissen already hasn't taken place it's due any day now. To lend credence to the rumor Col. Wyatt G. Franks, Welton's father, is out here on a visit.

After months of comparative idleness, Harry Bannister has settled his contract with Radio. He had another year to go and as I hear it, got 80 per cent of the full year's settlement. Harry a competent actor was skelled at the same time as Ann Harding but he's been given only a few bits.

When Constance Bennett comes over to R. K. O. they had a special star dressing room built for her. Ann Harding whose picture started first already had fallen heir to the room once used by Bebe Daniels and later by Mary Astor. Tay Garnett has sent me a copy of his book, "Tall Tales From Hollywood." Will tell you about it later. Hear that Fox is much pleased over its picture, "Young America." Bill Conselman co-authored the story, has been assigned to Joan Bennett's new picture, Week-Ends Only. . . . Hal Wallis tells me that Louise Fazenda opens Friday in Chicago. It will be the first of her personal appearances. She'll go straight to Hollywood in about four weeks.

THELMA REPEATS

Not only gentlemen but the Marx Brothers prefer blondes. Thelma Todd, who played in their last comedy, will repeat in "Horsefeathers," which is now being filmed with great secrecy on the Paramount lot. Visitors barred from the set and everything. Thelma who's still going about with Austin Parker, will play a siren in the new comedy.

Cortez Called Back To Hollywood

Plans of Ricardo Cortez to remain in New York until the Broadway premiere of his new starring picture, "Symphony of Six Million," were cut short when he was called back to the RKO studios in Hollywood to start work in "Is My Face Red." Cortez arrived in New York Monday night for a two-week trip, which included stops at New Orleans, Jacksonville and Havana.

Steps Taught By Cat

Vincente Escudero, the fiery Flamenco dancer, who is coming to the Nixon Theater Saturday evening, April 2, has been a favorite of the Montparnasse artists' colony in Paris for the past six years. There he settled down after a tempestuous youth wandering with a gypsy dancing troupe through the Spanish provinces, and an occasional summer spent in bullfighting.

In his quaint studio where some of the most prominent Parisian painters and musicians gather, Escudero spends his time practicing his inimitable foot-work and observing the antics of his huge white cat, from which he asserts, he has learned a good deal concerning natural movements of the dance. His performances of genuine gypsy dances are said to have been a sensation in New York.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

"DEAR MARK:" writes 'Washington Heights,' "Every once in so often I notice that you write a little piece about a dog. That tickles me, because I am a great lover of dogs and I go for the human interest stuff about them in a big way.

"I've always been pretty lucky with my dogs. And whenever anyone tells me that his dog has been poisoned by some fanatic, I see red. The animals are helpless, and I've always felt that any man or woman who would feed a dog poison was pretty much on a par with a skunk.

"But now I wonder. I wonder if the poisoners are any meaner than the mug who stole my dog the other afternoon from in front of my house. I was almost frantic and I immediately inserted an advertisement in the morning papers, describing the animal and offering a reward for its safe return.

"Around 7 o'clock that night, the thief called up. In a very nice manner, he asked me the name of the dog because his wife had become very much attached to it and they had decided to keep it!" . . .

* * *

"IF I take two drinks," writes Milton Hotchkiss, from Nashville, Tenn., "I feel great. But if I take four or five, I always feel a strange tapping near my heart. What is that?"

That, Milton, is probably your conscience talking to you in the re-Morse code . . .

* * *

"MY DEAR Mr. Hellinger," writes Dorothy D——. "Perhaps you would like to take up the cudgels for a real cause in your column. I'm just one of the thousands of trampled spectators who line the sidewalks at New York's official receptions. Of course, not being in politics and not knowing anyone in City Hall, I can hardly expect a grandstand seat. But I would love a good look at a celebrity or a big parade just once.

"As I look back through the years, I know that I have really tried hard without getting any results. When Lindy was given his great ovation, I saw only the color of his hair. When Ruth Elder was driven around in triumph, I saw only the color of her hat.

"That's the way it went all the time. With Post and Gatty, I never got anywhere. When Commander Byrd and his pals returned from the big flight, I almost made good. It was raining and the crowd was not so large. But alas! Just as their cars approached, the police shooed us all away. And again I was beaten.

"Last week, I tried once more. I attempted to get a good look at the St. Patrick's day parade, and I made an early start. Before I knew what had happened, there were hundreds of people in front of me. It was all just no use.

"So now I turn to you, Mr. Hellinger. There are going to be other receptions. Can't you suggest some advantageous spot where a girl can be comfortable while a parade is going on?"

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Willie and Eugene Howard have played together most of their professional lives. Last year Willie, starred in "Girl Crazy," was without his usual partner, but this season the brothers are together again, and are featured in George White's "Scandals," Easter week attraction in the Alvin for six nights and four matinees, the latter to begin Wednesday. Rudy Vallee, radio favorite, is another prominent member of the company, which recently ended a New York engagement that opened last September.

* * *

Hugh Sinclair, the young preacher-burglar of "Too True to Be Good," now winding up the regular season of the Nixon, is an Englishman who has commuted the Atlantic pretty regularly in recent years. He came to America in the second Charlot's Revue and remained to play in "Our Betters" with Ina Claire. Back to London for another revue went he, after which was another New York engagement in "Serena Blandish" with Ruth Gordon. Another trip to London included an engagement in "The Good Companions," in which he also played in America earlier this season.

* * *

A rumored vaudeville combination is said to include Marilyn Miller, Leon Errol, Walter Catlett and eight girls . . . Hal LeRoy, the boy dancing marvel seen here last summer in Ziegfeld "Follies," is appearing in a vaudeville act . . . Juanita Hansen, whose screen career was said to have been halted forever by a scalding she suffered, has been under treatment of skin specialists, and expects to make a film come-back eventually.

A New York revival of A. A. Milne's "The Truth About Blayds," originally produced in 1922, is scheduled for April 11, with O. P. Heggie in his original role and Pauline Lord featured . . . Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey and Dorothy Lee, together in many comedy films, have a plan for a musical show to play one-night stands of the Southwest and Midwest, opening in June.

William 'Stage' Boyd With Barrymore

William (Stage) Boyd, husky screen menace, today was added to the featured cast of "State's Attorney," the John Barrymore starring picture now being filmed at the RKO-Radio Pictures studio. A former New York stage favorite, Boyd has won recognition as one of the talking screen's foremost "villains." Helen Twelvetrees plays the feminine lead opposite Barrymore in "State's Attorney." Others in the cast include Jill Esmond, Mary Duncan, Ralph Ince, Eileen Percy, Nat Pendleton and Frederick Burton. George Archainbaud is directing.

Law and The Beast in Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"The Beast of the City," a dramatic display of law and underworld in a death grip, opened yesterday in the Fulton. It has the melodrama shooting out at you with the slam and the bang of a gangster's gat.

The picture is a sort of glorification of the Policeman. And certainly this individual is entitled to some, after all the heroic cavortings Mr. Hays' movies have permitted the Little Caesars and their gangs.

Incidentally, W. R. Burnett, who authored the original "Little Caesar," wrote the story of "The Beast of the City," which deals with the rise of a police captain, fighting an underworld czar, and with a law triumphant in the finale.

SHOOTING IT OUT

This finale, which overstretches itself in its attempt to put over the dramatics with a grand punch, is none-the-less an exciting affair. Policemen and gangsters shoot it out in one of those swell cabarets, and when it's all over you know why the heroic policeman, portrayed effectively by Walter Huston, left his life insurance policy on the hatrack before he left home.

Glimpses of Policeman Huston's family life put in the heart interest. There also is an element of brotherly drama, with Wallace Ford portraying a younger brother, who gets involved with a platinum blonde and a bank robbery, making it doubly difficult for Mr. Huston to clean up the town.

DIES LIKE A DOLL!

Of course, Jean Harlow is the platinum blonde. This time there's no happy fadeout clinch for her. Instead, she stops a piece of lead and flops over a table like a rag doll.

Jean Hersholt makes a fine show of his underworld-boss role, Tully Marshall is a gem of something or other as a wily lawyer. And Dorothy Peterson does an "honest" bit as a policeman's wife.

"The Beast of the City" has action and suspense. If, at times, it does go theatrical—who cares? It is boom, bang entertainment all the way.

STOP THAT COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

Someone has yet to give her a title around which she cannot weave a dramatic incident. Sara Hayden NBC dramatic actress once played a command performance for the King and Queen of England.

Paul Whiteman played an unknown dance tune, "When Day is Done," and earned for the composer, a young Hungarian lawyer, more than $50,000 in royalties. Pat Haley, the Mt. Short-wave radios, equipped with rugged 4-pillar tubes, get New York police-cars to the spot in time

"STICK 'EM UP!" The harsh words whip out like a lash, as the clerk turns back to the counter, package in hand. The first of the two "customers" backs slowly toward the door, holding the clerk rigid with the tiny, wicked eye of his gun. The second thief makes for the cash-drawer.

They finish, and start out the door . . . but blue uniforms bar the way. A coincidence? A stroke of luck? Not in New York City!

A few brief minutes before, a neighbor glanced from a window into the brightly lighted store . . . and seeing the clerk hold up his hands, he ran to the telephone. Before the echo of his voice had died, the air was filled with radio-signals in code. A cruising police-car near the scene caught the flashing message, and sped to the spot . . . in time!

220 police-cars, radio-equipped, protect the public in New York. Day and night they patrol the streets. The messages come trigger-fast . . . clear . . . accurate . . . because they are received through 4-pillar tubes. For none but Eveready Raytheon Tubes and Eveready "B" Batteries are used . . . assuring dependable, flawless reception where a failure or an error might cost a life.

With 4-pillar tubes, they are sure that engine-vibration and the constant jolting of the cars will never endanger reception. Eveready Raytheon Tubes have the strength to protect their vital accuracy. Four pillars anchor their elements in place. All other tubes use only two supports, and are easily damaged in handling and usage.

That's why 4-pillar tubes will improve your radio. They bring out the best that's in it . . . put a new thrill in every program. Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of these accurate tubes.

COUNTY GAINS POINT IN TRUCK PROBE CLASH

POLITICS

Primary Apt to Be Most Economical

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mark Shields

The present statewide campaign is apt to be the most economical political adventure staged in Pennsylvania for some years.

There are two reasons.

One is that men who have usually contributed liberally to political campaigns this year are restricted in their expenditures along this line. Their business and personal interests come first and the political surplus, if any, is reduced.

A second reason for careful expenditure is the attitude of Senator James J. Davis. After the last election Senator Davis had an experience with a Senate investigating committee, which went into the outlay made on behalf of Davis and Francis Shunk Brown, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor on the same slate with the Senator.

As the inquisitors proceeded with the inquiry they became convinced that most of the money spent in the primary was for Brown, and that the campaign cost directly in behalf of Davis was comparatively small. It is true that this conclusion was reached reluctantly, and at least one Senator was hard to convince, but it was established.

However, the experience was not pleasant.

Ever since the great auction of 1926, when money flowed like water in the primary, Senators have looked at Pennsylvania campaigns with suspicious eyes. Progressive friends of Gov. Pinchot will do that again this year, and Mr. Davis and his associates do not wish to give them any excuse for an investigation.

It may be bad news for some of the boys in the ranks, but there's the situation, which they may as well realize now.

Judicial Candidates Not Likely at Meeting

It is improbable any candidates for judicial office will be present Tuesday evening at the Independent mass meeting in Orchestra Hall. Judges Joseph Stadtfeld, Robert Gawthrop and William M. Parker are being supported by the Independents for the three places on the Superior Court.

Judges Gawthrop and Parker, together with former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, are also being supported by the Republican State Committee and the Philadelphia organization. It is probable Stadtfeld also will have some organization support, especially in Allegheny County.

Presumably the judges are taking the position that they should not become involved in factional politics in view of the manner in which lines are split within the Republican party on the judicial election. There is sound sense to that argument.

It is not related in any way to the platitude—usually insincere—that judges should not campaign under any conditions. They must, and either they or their friends must, under present conditions, play politics. To say that they don't is convincing to no one who has watched the play of recent events here.

State Chairman Martin says the judges his faction supports are not stumping because it isn't good form. Presumably that is intended to mean that the judges are free from political odors. Well, one reason judicial campaigns sometimes are unnecessary is that deals are cooked up in their behalf in advance of campaigns. There is an example of that in this primary attended with as much log-rolling, trading and political swapping as ever surrounded the slating of a candidate for constable, and no faction can deny dealing on two recent judicial appointments.

* * *

Barr to Introduce Pinchot and Butler

County Commissioner C. M. Barr will preside and introduce the Independent speakers at Tuesday night's meeting, when Gov. Pinchot and Gen. Smedley Butler, the latter a candidate for the United States Senate, fire the first guns of the campaign.

Knowing the lack of attachment between Barr and Pinchot, some may scent an inconsistency here. That would not be unusual, of course, consistency having little part in politics.

But Barr is not in an inconsistent position. Pinchot is not a candidate, and Barr is energetically for Butler. Both are ardent drys and have other things in common, including the Commissioner's continued fight against the Republican organization.

Now, if Mr. Pinchot were the candidate, and Barr were introducing him with fulsome praise, there could be the charge of inconsistency. But it is doubtful if there would be any chance to make the charge, for Mr. Barr probably would not be occupying such a prominent position in the affair.

This much is certain:

With Barr, Butler and Pinchot speaking from the same platform on the same evening, there will be few dull moments. It is here predicted that before the end of this campaign the citizenry is going to enjoy the Butler style of oratory. Whether they will vote for him is another question.

Why Not Return to Wampum and Seashell Cash?

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Now we're going after the string-savers and the pewter-misers.

There's an old lady in our town who has saved paper bags for 50 years and now admits her life has been a failure.

Yesterday she said:

"You can save them paper bags all you want to. But you'll never corner the market."

Funny thing has happened to the money tangle. While they've been thawing out frozen gold the silver has been frost-bitten.

Silver is so cheap today that you can finish last in a bridge tournament and still get a loving cup.

After we've fixed up silver we'll find that nickel is tottering and that pennies have gone off the copper standard.

Then we'll go back to our original money racket. Wampum, sea shells and shinplasters and be happy again. That's why our ancestors were so contented. They didn't have to buy a ticket to climb a tree.

CHURCHES HOLD GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Many Special Rites Mark Day of Crucifixion as Christians Mourn Savior

While the stations of the cross were being said in Catholic churches, and services were being held in many Protestant churches, Pittsburgh today joined with the rest of the Christian world in the observance of Good Friday, the Day of the Crucifixion.

Dramatizations of the stations of the cross were presented at the afternoon service in Sacred Heart Church, Shady avenue and Walnut street, by children of the Sacred Heart grade school. The Rev. Andrew J. Pauley and the Rev. Leo A. McCrory officiated. The service will be held again tonight at 7:45, when the stations of the cross will be said with the adoration of the cross.

In the German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street, bi-lingual services were scheduled by the Rev. Dr. C. A. Voss.

"The Passion," a cantata, will be given tonight by the Choral Society of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, Sixth avenue. The Very Rev. N. R. High Moor, dean of the cathedral, conducted services from noon to 3 p. m.

MUSIC PROGRAM

A musical program will mark services in St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West View. The chorus will sing Stanier's "Crucifixion" at the 8 p. m. service. The Rev. Luther P. Spoehr will be in charge.

Communion will be celebrated tonight in Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, with the Rev. Dr. M. B. Fuller in charge.

"The Seven Last Words" is the scheduled theme for the Good Friday services in the Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue, the services being from noon to 3 p. m.

Wilkinsburg community services were from noon to 3 p. m. in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Franklin avenue, with the Rev. William Porkess, assisted by six other pastors, in chage.

Final plans were being completed today for the sunrise prayer service to be held Easter morning at 7 o'clock on Flagstaff Hill, Schenley Park.

DR. PETTY TO SPEAK

The Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, of the First Baptist Church, will present the address, speaking on "The Power of Endless Life." The service will be broadcast by WCAE, beginning at 6:45 a. m. In the event of bad weather, committee members said, the service would be held in the First United Presbyterian Church, Fifth avenue and Thackeray street, from where WCAE will also broadcast.

The Allegheny County Christian Endeavor chorus, under the direction of Clyde L. Wolford, will present several selections.

Co-operating with the Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Union in the service will be several other young people's religious organizations.

Attendance at the service held last Easter on Flagstaff Hill was approximately 10,000. Preparations have been made this year to care for a crowd of at least 20,000, officials said.

Churches of Fayette County will join in an Easter sunrise service on Mt. Summit, near Uniontown, where Judge J. W. Dawson will preside. Music will be presented by the American Legion Cornet Band.

Robber Gets Cigarets From Chain Store

MRS. SCHRINER, 20, AND ALBERT . . . BABY'S EASTER CLOTHES

Grief Stricken Mother Seeks to Arrange Easter Funeral

In her Easter dress of pink silk little Dolores Schriner, 14 months, lay asleep—the sleep of death—today in her home at 2806 Penn avenue.

Albert, her 3-year-old brother, couldn't understand why Dolores slept so long, and so quietly. Certainly no one could expect 3-year-old Albert to understand that Dolores was "sleeping" because of that new game he invented.

Dolores' mother, Jennie Schriner, 20, wants to bury her baby on Easter. Today she was trying to make such arrangements at St. John the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Schriner wasn't present when Dolores died. Sole support of her two children, she was working in the restaurant of her aunt.

Dolores and Albert were in the home of Mrs. Catherine Brooks, Negro, at 2329 Penn avenue. Mrs. Brooks for the last week has been caring for the children while their mother worked.

Mrs. Brooks went to the drug store for medicine.

Albert touched a stick to the open coal grate in the room in which Dolores lay.

Into the bedclothes Albert poked the burning stick—possibly thinking that he might enliven the monotony of Dolores' day.

Homestead Thugs Slug Man in Home

Thomas Kodich, 44, was struck on the head and knocked unconscious by one of five men who invaded his home at 244 Seventh avenue, West Homestead, early today and demanded money, according to police. They got none.

HOLDUP FOILED BY CARRICK GIRL

The feminine intuition of pretty 19-year-old Mary Danchuck, of 35 Alexis street, saved her wrist watch when she and her escort were held up by two gunmen in their parked automobile in Glass Run road and Agnew lane, Carrick, early today.

When Mary saw an automobile being driven out of the lane, she told her companion, Paul Doelfel, 20, of 123 Greenfield avenue, there was going to be a holdup. Accordingly, she slipped her watch in her sleeve. Doelfel dropped his wallet containing $10 to the floor of the car.

The bandits slugged Doelfel and took 85 cents.

S. B. Tustin, of 310 McKee place, was robbed of $11 by an armed man, who confronted him near his home last night. Tustin was en route home at the time.

C. F. Zimmer, of 1218 Creedmore street, reported to police that two men attacked him at Washington and Webster avenues early today, forced him into their machine and threw him out a block away after robbing him of $23.

CITY DEFAULT ON BATH HOUSE PACT BARED

Failed to Keep Pledge to Cut Payroll, Make Repairs, Oliver Attorney Charges

That city officials promised to operate the Oliver bath house at South Tenth and Bingham streets without political interference in the payroll, to spend $12,000 for repairs and $2,000 a year for maintenance and then failed to keep their promise is charged by Attorney Henry Oliver Evans, representing the Henry W. Oliver estate, in a letter to John S. Herron, president of City Council.

The bath house was used as a bootlegging headquarters by one or two city employes about 1922, Evans declared. This situation was only cleared up after considerable difficulty, he stated.

PAYROLL INCREASED

The Oliver estate pledged itself to provide $8,400 per year for maintenance, provided the city kept its bargain, Evans stated. In 1928, conditions were checked, Evans declared, and the payroll found to be loaded with political appointees and the building in poor repair.

The city had been represented by Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, and W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of the Bureau of Recreation. Originally the endowment of the bath house had been provided with the income from 1,400 shares of Pittsburgh Coal preferred stock. When dividends on this issue were passed the Oliver estate was asked to advance the money for the annual endowment.

In 1926, Lang and Batchelor promised that conditions would be remedied, according to Evans. In 1928, Evans said an examination of the premises showed that only about $3,000 worth of repairs had been made instead of the $12,000 promised. The payroll had been increased from $4,890 in 1916 to $7,700 in 1926, he stated.

FRIENDS OF POLITICIAN

When Director Lang's attention was called to the large payroll, Evans declared he offered as an excuse that the men were put on as friends of a prominent politician who lived nearby, and that he wanted to keep them on the payroll until after the election.

Evans said he replied that the Director could keep them on as long as he pleased, but that the estate would not pay a cent until the agreement which had been made regarding repairs, maintenance and reduction of payroll be put in effect. Nothing further was heard from Director Lang in the matter, Evans declared.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 25.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

John J. McGraw gave a little dinner Wednesday night for Jim Jeffries, who was champion when you had to fight; Tod Sloan, for whom kings have dropped their monocles applauding; Barney Oldfield, the originator of giving Americans a thrill; Chief Meyers, who hit home runs when the ball wasn't rubber, and Mike Donlin, who with his wife, Mabel Hite, received the biggest reception I ever heard on a stage.

Will Rogers

All passing over the horizon of popular clamor, but never forgotten by McGraw. Yet if all the combined applause and cheers given these men had been recorded in sound and run nowadays, it would make our present-day celebrities envious. I'm raving; I guess I'm getting old. But I want you kids to know that in your dad's time there were men.

Candidate Scores Jobless Relief Here

Methods of unemployment relief in Pittsburgh are "an expensive way to starvation," James R. George, Independent Republican candidate for the Legislature from the Seventh District, told Garrison Post, Army and Navy Union, last night. Economic recovery depends on a relief program based on full wages, he said.

George proposed a $25,000,000 state housing program, the money to be raised by an income tax.

BOOKS ORDERED PRODUCED FOR INSPECTION

Woodside Issues Subpena For Records of Witness After Tilt With Frank

After a stormy session in the probe of county trucking, which the County Commissioners' auditors tossed into his lap, Controller Robert G. Woodside directed that a subpena be issued for A. F. Kaechele to bring his books to the Controller's office Wednesday morning in the next session of the inquiry.

During the questioning of Kaechele yesterday Woodside refused motions and overruled objections of Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank every time he made one.

Trouble started with the opening of the hearing yesterday afternoon. Kaechele was supposed to bring in his books. Instead, he brought in two pages which he said were torn from the only book that he keeps. He said that he "lifted" the sheets out and that he didn't see any reason why he should bring the rest of the book because it was "nobody's business but his own."

CLASH OVER WITNESS

This did not suit Frank who said:

"We move that the witness be held in contempt."

"Refused."

When Frank asked that he at least be heard on the motion, Woodside declared that Frank was "making a speech for the newspapers."

"This man Kaechele did not produce his books. He now says that he has none; but he testified yesterday that he did have books. I think we all stultify ourselves if we permit this witness to bring in just what he wants to bring in."

DEFENDS TRUCKER

Attorney H. D. Hirsh, counsel for Kaechele interrupted:

"Mr. Frank is testifying as an expert witness. This man brought in what books he has. A trucker does not run his business like the Mellon Bank. I think the other side of this case is on a fishing expedition. Kaechele has acted in good faith."

"I won't argue the good faith of a man who produces two torn pages of a book and says that is all the record of his business he has except a bank book and check book stubs. And these two pages are obvious fabrications."

Woodside broke in with:

"The Controller has issued no subpena for the books."

Frank then moved that the subpena be issued. Discussion of the motion brought the remark from Hirsh that:

This led Frank to remark that:

"The hypermyopic (nearsighted) visions of the investigators see without much strain that the whole business of this witness was tied up with Eddie Ray, who in turn was tied up with Bill Ziefel (William H. Ziefel) and James E. Routley." (Respectively former chief and assistant chief clerks in the County Commissioners' office.)

Kaechele was then subjected to questioning concerning his bank account.

All he could remember about his checking account was that he last saw a bunch of canceled checks a month or two ago on his desk. When Frank asked him specifically about how he disbursed a total of $1,518.50 paid to him by the county during last August, Hirsh objected and the Controller ruled that the question was too broad in scope.

After Kaechele described a man he said audited his accounts a year ago only as a "little thin fellow in a green Ford," Frank again asked that the Controller issue the subpena.

Excusing Hirsh, his client and newspapermen from the hearing, Woodside conferred with Frank and the Main & Co. men. At the conclusion of this discussion Woodside said that he would issue the subpena returnable Wednesday morning. He said:

"We have cleared up a misunderstanding with the Commissioners' attorneys and will issue the subpena."

Aerial Campaigners Push Anti-Hoarding Drive, Boost July Convention

Arriving from Philadelphia late yesterday at Bettis Field in their plane "Islam," a group of Shriners touring America today were quartered in the "presidential" suite of William Penn Hotel.

Their air jaunt has a two-fold purpose, William H. Woodfield, director general of the 1932 Shrine convention in San Francisco July 26 explained—to boost the convention and to further an anti-hoarding drive among Shriners. He said:

"We are asking 350,000 Shriners to put $10,000,000 into circulation. Present conditions are due chiefly to hoarding."

A movie pageant with Harold Lloyd in the leading role will be one of the features of the convention, he said. Of 75 temples already visited, he said, 65 had promised to send large delegations.

The visitors were welcomed at Bettis Field by Carl E. Hammers, potentate; James Barber, recorder; R. D. Cochrane and Harry A. Vinton, all of Syria Mosque.

Architectural Club Decks Rooms for Anniversary Fete

Members Perform 'Labor of Love' On Rooms

By PENELOPE REDD

Miss Redd

The Architectural Club describes its path reminiscent of a passage from a Robert Louis Stevenson novel. "Charette Way" will be discovered just before Fifth avenue meets Penn for the first time.

Then the assortment of trucks congregated in the "Charette Way" by-pass must be dodged before one safely reaches a door emblazoned with ornamental lead panels. Up a narrow stairway decorated with comic and historic detail reliefs in plaster, one turns three to arrive at a landing with stained glass windows.

Any day now that the ascent is safely accomplished, a sextet or so of members will be found at work on the neck-breaking labor of love of completing the clubroom decorations for the forthcoming birthday party.

The anniversary on March 31 is a wayward one, marking the thirty-fifth since its organization by the late John Comes.

The decoration for the celebration includes an ambitious ceiling simulating the heavens generously sprinkled with stars and with the signs of the zodiac added for good measure. The beams are painted in a geometric pattern suggested by the design in the church of San Miniato, Florence.

Edward Trumbull's mural decoration, "The Three Wise Men," which once raised a tempest in the local teapot enlivens a wall. An improvised stage points to the predilection of architects to furnish fun and frolic.

Aside from this proclivity for good times on festal occasions the Pittsburgh Architectural Club has performed noteworthy service. The club has informed the public through a series of exhibitions that architecture is more than monotonous blue prints. In 1907 the club presented at Carnegie Institute the first International Exhibition of Architecture to be shown in the United States.

His only purpose, he said, was to hope for a commission from Bowman if by chance those "tips" won.

O'Neil was held for investigation, even after offering a sad story of conditions among followers of the ponies.

PARIS, March 25.—Every Jill must have a jacket to complete her nicest frocks and so create the ensemble that is so prominent a feature of the spring mode. Some frocks have matching jackets, others use contrasting colors that match the contrast trimming on the frock, while fur jackets are used with grand effect to create some most attractive ensembles. Of course, it is a grand ensemble that can boast its own, particular fur coatee. Nearly every house has been showing several such costumes and, what is more important, has been selling them to both private and professional buyers. Lots of the new models are using the brown and eggshell color scheme that bids fair to become one of the successes of the season, as it is infinitely practical and more dressy than last year's brown with white, used so much in the spring. The palest eggshell is used much for models, while copies will use deeper tints for general wear. But to put on our jackets again. The attenuated bolero type of jacket is tremendously popular here. It has the youth and dash that women demand of their spring clothes.

* * *

Rhubarb Beneficial Because Of Wholesome Qualities

Because it contains a considerable amount of oxalic acid it is not advisable to eat it in large amounts doctor says

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator from New York

Rhubarb is a plant grown exclusively for its stalks. This is the only part of the plant that is used. The plant itself is attractive and is often grown in gardens merely for its decorative appearance.

Rhubarb contains a considerable amount of oxalic acid, on account of which it is not advisable to eat it in large amounts. Doctors who have been making a study of rhubarb have now developed the fact that it

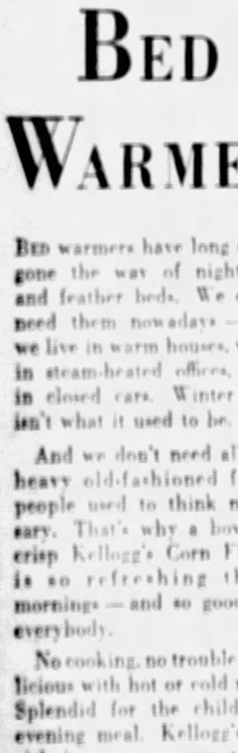
2 out of 3 Toilet Tissues contain Harmful Acids



You probably don't own a BED WARMER

BED warmers have long since gone the way of nightcaps and feather beds. We don't need them nowadays — for we live in warm houses, work in steam-heated offices, ride in closed cars. Winter just isn't what it used to be.

And we don't need all the heavy old-fashioned foods people used to think necessary. That's why a bowl of crisp Kellogg's Corn Flakes is so refreshing these mornings — and so good for everybody.

No cooking, no trouble. Delicious with hot or cold milk. Splendid for the children's evening meal. Kellogg's are rich in energy — easy to digest. Why not order a red-and-green package today? Quality guaranteed.

THESE TESTS were made in a nationally known laboratory. 660 brands of toilet tissue were examined—brands purchased at retail in stores throughout the country. 455 were found to contain harmful acids. Be safe when you buy! Always specify the brand of a responsible manufacturer.

Serious illness traced to the widespread use of impure toilet tissues . . . Tests show SCOTTISSUE and WALDORF absolutely safe

MEDICAL SCIENCE recently proved in a hospital laboratory that two-thirds of the so-called "brands" of toilet tissue sold in stores today are unsafe—unfit to use.

660 brands were tested—chemically and microscopically.

The detailed report shows that 455 of these 660 toilet tissues are decidedly inferior and contain chemical impurities which are an actual menace to health.

Strong acids . . . mercury . . . aluminum . . . sand . . . chlorine . . . and even arsenic were found.

In every test, ScotTissue and Waldorf conformed to accepted standards of medical safety.

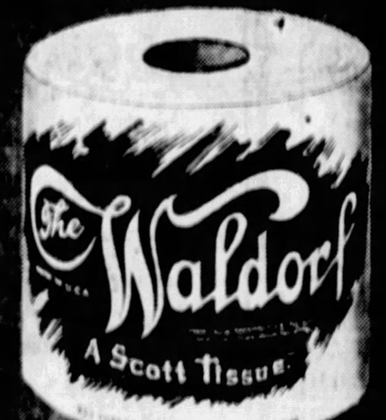
No harsh irritants were found. Both ScotTissue and Waldorf were extremely soft, absolutely pure, with a high degree of absorbency.

Protect your family from serious illness. Use only tissues you know meet the standards which physicians approve.

Scott Tissues cost no more than the ordinary kind. Ask for them by name—ScotTissue or Waldorf.

MEDICALLY SAFE

The above tests showed that ScotTissue and Waldorf are absolutely safe—entirely free from harsh irritants . . . and chemically pure. These extremely soft, absorbent health tissues have always been approved for safety, by doctors, hospitals and health authorities.



WITH BABIES or children especially, rectal illness may be quite serious. For a child's membranes are extremely sensitive—easily chafed or inflamed by the harsh acids or coarse texture of inferior toilet tissue.

Be safe! Use only ScotTissue or Waldorf, the two health tissues that doctors and hospitals approve and recommend for safety.

half of sugar in a smooth skillet over low heat until the sugar turns a rich brown color, add the water, continue to stir until a thick caramel syrup has formed, and remove from the fire. Heat the milk slightly, add the salt, 3 tablespoons of sugar, ¾ cup of the caramel syrup and vanilla, and stir into the slightly beaten eggs until well mixed. Butter custard cups, put in each about 2 teaspoons of the caramel syrup, fill with the custard mixture, put a small piece of butter on top and bake on a rack in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes or until set. Test by inserting the point of a knife in the center of the custard. If it comes out clean remove the custard at once from the hot water. When cold turn out on individual plates and the caramel syrup in the bottom of the cups will run down over the custard like a sauce.

LEMON TEA BISCUITS — 3 cups flour, 6 tablespoons shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Mix thoroughly. Moisten with 1 cup milk (fresh or evaporated) soured with ¼ cup lemon juice.

Pat out on floured board. Brush with melter butter. Bake in hot oven (400-450 degree F.) 10 to 12 minutes. The lemon peel gives a pleasing flavor. Biscuits resemble the fluffy old-time sour milk biscuits. Makes 30 medium sized biscuits.

COCOA CAKE—1 Cup sugar, ½ cup shortening, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups flour, sifted, ½ cup cocoa, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream sugar and shortening together. Add egg and beat smooth. Stir in the milk. In a separate bowl mix all the dry ingredients and then add them to the liquid mixture. When well blended add the vanilla. Bake in a shallow greased pan in a moderate oven. When cool, cover with chocolate butter frosting and cut into squares.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Love Brings Success When Everything Else Fails

Have you, or are you, a mamma with a nervous breakdown.

Then listen while Dolly broadcasts, and tell us which one needs the bawling out.

Mamma says Dolly does, but Dolly's beginning to wonder if dear, darling mamma is as perfect—and as pathetic—as she thinks.

"Dearest Sally:

"I wonder if you won't help me. Please try won't you. And please don't throw this letter in the waste paper for I need advice badly.

"Here is the problem. About five months ago my mother had a nervous breakdown and ever since then she insists on never leaving the house although it seems to everyone that she is feeling all right again.

NOT ALLOWED OUT

"If we ask her to go anywhere she says no that she can't because she is too weak. All of the family are trying to do everything they can for her but she won't step outside the house at all and no matter how we try to persuade her to.

"And not only that she won't let me leave the house either. I am 16 going on 17 and I like to have a good time now and then. I don't mean the kind of a good time some girls mean but just a clean good time.

"I like to swim and play ball and go in for all kinds of such sports and I have lots of friends and like to go to parties and dances.

"But I have not been able to go anywhere because mother won't let me. My friends all pity me on account of this and I don't want their pity. It hurts my pride.

"At first I didn't mind so much. I told myself that I should be ashamed of wanting to leave my mother when she was sick. But now I feel that she ought to let me go on for a while and not make a fuss.

SCOLDED BY MOTHER

"I don't want to go out all the time. Just now and then is all. I'd be happy and content if I could even go once a week.

"One night last month she did let me go much to my surprise and I was so happy. But when I came home she was in bed crying and sobbing and saying that I ought to be ashamed of myself to want to go and leave her.

"Since then I haven't even mentioned going anywhere but it is awfully hard when I have to stay in all the time. I love my mother but I don't think it is fair and I am awfully unhappy. Do you think I am selfish to feel that way. Please help me won't you.

DOLLY

Of course it's unfair, honey. And you are not selfish. You're only human and young and you really need to go out and have exercise and fun and friends.

I don't blame you one tiny bit for getting mad as hops at mother, but getting mad at folks never buys us anything so let's try to stay cool and think this thing out.

SICK HABITS

Mother of course is both unreasonable and selfish. But she doesn't mean to be this way. She has grown this way because her body was sick. Now her body is well, but her mind has learned sick habits which are still hanging on.

You can't cure her of those habits by a fit of temper. Your temper will only give her more reason to be sorry for herself and center the attention on herself.

So you'll have to try and kid her out of it, youngster. Win danny and some of the other members of the family over to your side. Make them see what a mess your life is in and how mother is hurting herself by this growing brooding and then get together to find some new interests for her.

Invent little surprises for her. Tease and tempt her to go out once in a while with you. Buy her a new dress. Tell her she's too pretty to mope at home.

Try loving her, Dolly. Love will work miracles when everything else fails.

By FAY KING

Too often we read of those who profess undying love—and die for it.

Surely nothing is more deplorable than the foolish, fatal and final act of committing suicide because of an unhappy love affair.

The thing to do is to live. Live, and wait and see what may come. It is a stronger proof of the great love they profess, and may solve all their problems in time.

For if undying love does endure, it can suffer and survive separation and all else that may test its courage.

Then, too, there are countless persons who have lived to see that day come when the one they once thought they could not live without and wanted to die for—interests them no longer.

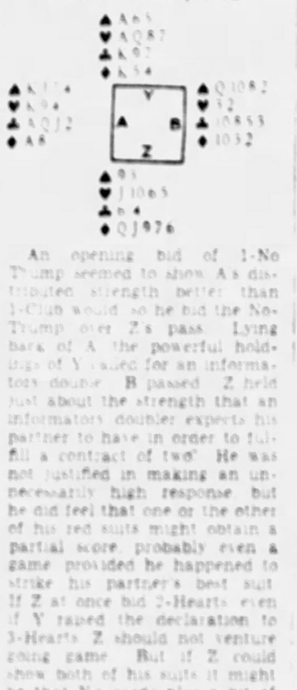
Contract Bridge -:- -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

A Practical Partner

It is a great pleasure to sit opposite a player who is practical. It is a curious mental twist that causes the masses to regard a man without erudition as practical. As a matter of fact, an educated man is more likely to be practical than is an uneducated man. Every practical man sees the advantage of knowledge and strives to gain it. Jealousy alone causes the slur. Y and Z were both well trained and practical as their bidding on the hands shown below proved.



An opening bid of 1-No Trump seemed to show A's distribution strength better than 1-Club would so he bid the No-Trump over Z's pass. Lying back of A the powerful holdings of Y called for an informatory double. B passed. Z held just about the strength that an informatory doubler expects his partner to have in order to fulfill a contract of two. He was not justified in making an unnecessarily high response, but he did feel that one or the other of his red suits might obtain a partial score, probably even a game, provided he happened to strike his partner's best suit. If Z at once bid 2-Hearts even if Y raised the declaration to 3-Hearts Z should not venture going game. But if Z could show both of his suits it might be that Y's cards plus a bit of luck would yield game. Z bid 2-Diamonds. A passed. Y shifted to 2-No Trumps as Z had thought possible. Then Z bid 3-Hearts which A passed.

It seemed clear to Y that his partner held five diamonds and only four hearts. In case Z had just two cards of each black suit there should be lost only two black tricks, presuming that A held both missing aces and both missing kings, there were fair game chances provided Z held in the two suits that he had shown several lower honors. It did not seem reasonable that Z would dare show two suits unless he held the average strength expected when a double is made by the partner. Y-Z appeared to hold jointly just eight cards of each red suit, making in each instance the probable adverse division of the remainder cards 3-2. At diamonds game required 11 tricks, but at hearts only 10 tricks were needed. Having calculated all this out as Y afterward explained, he closed contracting with 4-Hearts.

Having four suits undesirable for making opening leads, A led his lowest diamond, as perhaps the lead least harmful. Dummy played low, B put up his 10, and Z's Q was false-carded as the winner. The J of hearts was led through A's K. Three rounds of trumps captured all opposing hearts, leaving one trump each to Y and Z. Y's K cleared diamonds. A tried to fool the declarer with a lead of the Q of clubs, but dummy's K captured the trick, and Z regained his own hand by leading dummy's last diamond.

Y's two remaining clubs were discarded upon Z's two good diamonds, allowing dummy to ruff the declarer's last club. A's attempt to deceive Z had cost the defenders one trick, had Z been fooled the trick would have defeated the contract by giving A-B two club tricks, one diamond trick and one spade trick. As it was Y won one spade trick with his Ace; the defenders won a single trick in that suit, and Z trumped the third spade lead, giving him one trick over his contract.

How to Keep Well

Poison Fumes Cause Many Fatalities

A recent newspaper report tells a dreadful story of 14 persons overcome by coal fumes or gas escaping from a defective flue. A disaster such as this is a frequent occurrence in cold weather.

Dr. Copeland

I want to warn all my readers of the great dangers associated with gas poisoning. Coal gas contains a poisonous element known as carbon monoxide. When this gas is inhaled serious effects result. Carbon monoxide is one of the most deadly of gas poisons. It combines with the blood and produces dangerous changes.

This poison is found in illuminating gas. It is liberated by the incomplete combustion of gasoline in the automobile. It is found in furnace gas, natural gas and in coal mines.

The effects of the gas are rapid. The victim falls into a deep sleep and does not awaken unless energetic measures are taken. If rescued after a short exposure to the deadly gas, complete recovery is possible. If deep sleep has persisted very long, recovery is doubtful.

Expert attention is necessary in the treatment of this condition. Call a physician immediately and in the meantime do not move the patient as this is dangerous and may cause serious damage. Contrary to a common belief, walking is harmful to the patient, since any exertion may damage the heart permanently. The afflicted person should be kept warm with blankets and the air in the room should be fresh, but not cold.

If the victim is not breathing, artificial respiration is essential since inhalation of oxygen and carbon dioxide is necessary to save these cases. If the carbon dioxide cannot be obtained, oxygen alone may be sufficient, but best results are obtained by alternating the oxygen with carbon dioxide.

Most cases of carbon monoxide poisoning could have been prevented if proper care had been taken. All leaky gas jets and gas pipes and any imperfect flues or old stoves should be repaired.

Remember especially that this gas is liberated in the exhaust of your car and never leave it for any reason, remain in a closed garage with a motor that is running.

I have come in professional or official contact with many of these cases. The pity about all of them was that they might have been prevented.

The most frequent source of danger is a cracked piece of tubing leading from the gas fixture to the heater. I beg of you to take no chances by using old and rotten tubing.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

No need to worry about hair that splits at the ends. Only hair that grows its normal length is up to that trick. Nature is shedding dead tissue for which she hasn't any use. Clipping is as good as singeing. All that talk about hair bleeding is a lot of bunkum.

Cornmeal will perform as well as any other substance as a dry shampoo. It brushes out more thoroughly and readily than powdered orris, the old-time medium. It picks up oil from scalp and hair strands, but it is a doubtful cleansing agent. A weekly shampoo with melted soap a rousing old bath spray, plenty of scalp friction, and a final cold water rinsing will keep any head of hair in apple pie order.

The genuine Egyptian henna imparts a red shade to the hair. It is combined with enough boiling water to form a paste the consistency of whipped cream, and applied hot. The head is covered for a few minutes with steaming hot towels, and the hair given a thorough shampoo.

There's an idea traveling about to the effect that by eating more green vegetables and green salads a girl will rid herself of moth patches. This cure is based on the notion that skin discolorations are produced by a sluggish intestinal tract or a torpid liver. Some say so, some say not; authorities do not agree. Since green vegetables and salads are what everybody needs, no sense in not trying 'em.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Hospital Visit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The mother of a very dear man friend of mine is going to have an operation performed on her eyes very soon. Would it be proper for my mother to visit her at the hospital or should she wait until she has come home? The mothers have met several times before but have never visited.

If it is correct for my mother to go to the hospital is it all right for her to take something to her, for instance, flowers?

READER

It would be a most gracious and friendly gesture for your mother to go to the hospital when the patient is able to see guests after the operation. Convalescent hours in a hospital are dreary hours and friends are usually most welcome. Of course we should always be very sure that guests are to be admitted, and we shouldn't go too soon after an operation and we shouldn't stay too long so that the patient is tired. But I am sure that your mother will observe all of those suggestions and I am sure that your friend's mother will be touched by her friendliness and thoughtfulness.

It would be charming for her to take a box of flowers with her when she goes. Flowers are better than fruits when we are not sure about the patient's diet. Besides flowers are always a safe gift, and carry a charming message. And they should be flowers that have little or no fragrance.

Thanking the Hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

After a party that has been given in your honor, should you call the hostess next day and repeat your thanks? I think that this is expected of the guest of honor. What is your opinion?

KAY

The appreciative guest of honor certainly would tell the hostess the next day, either by telephone or by note, how much he or she enjoyed the party and how deeply he or she appreciated the honor that the hostess had given. For the honor of having a party given for one is an exceptional compliment and should be thanked for in a most grateful manner.

Household Hints

There is nothing like lard for chapped lips and hands. Rub lightly over the affected parts and allow to remain on for a few minutes.

When frying place a saucepan lid over the frying pan. It will keep in the steam and the contents of the pan will cook more quickly.

Perspiration stains on silks or other fabrics may be removed with lemon. Draw the stained spot lightly over a cup of hot water. Squeeze lemon juice on to the stain and rub gently until it disappears. Now dip into the hot water, squeeze and iron.

Women said— YOU CAN'T HAVE SNOWY WHITE CLOTHES WITHOUT HARD RUBBING

BUT they hadn't tried the New Oxydol then

Those extra, richer suds are the secret of easy washing, of cleaner, whiter clothes. Suds that don't collapse and let the dirt fall back on the clothes—clean smelling suds that never ball up or leave a scum on the tub—suds that make clothes gleaming white without tiresome rubbing.

The New Oxydol's as easy on hands as it is on dainty things—and it makes rich suds in either hard water or soft water turned hard by dirty clothes or dishes. Ask your grocer today for a package—see how much it lightens all your housework.

GIANTS CAN STAND LOSS OF CATCHER

A CRACK IN the catching department would ordinarily mean a serious, if not fatal, handicap to a club having designs on the pennant, but it doesn't necessarily follow that the failure of Frank Hogan to round into shape this spring is going to have any very harmful effect upon the flag chances of the New York Giants. A catcher means less on that team than any other. Except for a possible difference in hitting ability, it doesn't matter a great deal who happens to be back of the bat.

Frank Hogan

This for the reason that the main duty of the receiver on the average club—the handling of the pitchers and the coaching of them on what to give the batter on each delivery or in varying situations—does not rest on the shoulders of a Giant backstop. That's all done from the bench. Manager John McGraw himself attends to it. The hurler doesn't get his orders from the maskman, but must be governed in what he throws to every hitter by the signals he gets from the dugout. The catcher on a club that McGraw is directing is little more than a machine.

SO EXCEPT FOR the fact that his hitting may be missed the Giants are not greatly worried as to whether Hogan is fit for the start or not. At present, the chances appear to be against his being ready. He weighs 240 pounds and either can't or won't take any of it off. McGraw says Frank won't catch a game for the Giants unless he cuts down his poundage.

Meanwhile the presence of Francis Healey in camp has stirred up Rob O'Farrell. The latter is showing more pepper, better throwing and greater hitting ability than in 1930 or 1931, and if Hogan doesn't get into condition Rob will do the catching. Besides, Healey continues to look more and more promising. All that he lacks is experience, and as McGraw himself says, Giant catchers do not need the experience that backstops on other clubs require.

IT IS NOT unusual for an old regular on a college team to be crowded out of his job by a sophomore, but Andy Coakley, veteran baseball coach at Columbia, reports something close to a world record in that direction.

The four infielders of last year's team are again available, but the four from the freshman outfit of 1931 are of such caliber that there is a possibility the entire holdover infield will be pushed out of the varsity picture.

DOWN IN ATLANTA the Georgia Tech football squad put on a full game under the new rules, and found them quite satisfactory, which may or may not mean anything. Reports of the scrimmaging say the linemen used their hands effectively within the rules, holding them in front to fend off, which is held to show that a forward can use his hands without clouting an opponent on the head, the evil at which the new regulation is aimed. However, Coach Bill Alexander did not use the kickoff, but put the ball in play from scrimmage, and many football men believe it is in the kickoff that the hitch will come next fall.*

Elmer Knetzer

A POPULAR LOCAL pitcher, who is one of the most remarkable veterans in any division of baseball, has just signed for another season in an unusual career. Elmer Knetzer, Brentwood righthander and former major leaguer, has accepted a nice offer from the Wilkes-Barre club and will pitch for Manager Mike McNally there in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Knetzer hurled for Binghamton in the same league the last four seasons. He had an agreement whereby he became a free agent at the close of the 1931 campaign. Binghamton wanted him to return this year, and he received numerous other offers from clubs in various parts of the country, but the proposal from Wilkes-Barre appealed to him most strongly.

ELMER WILL REPORT to his new club on April 11. He is in fine shape, as usual, and bids fair to keep up the form that has made him one of the most successful pitchers in the minor leagues. Last season he was in 34 games and hurled 236 innings for Binghamton, winning 21 games and losing only seven.

Wilkes-Barre will be the ninth club for which the Brentwood citizen has pitched in professional ball. His first engagement was with Lawrence, and from there he went to Brooklyn, Boston Nationals, Cincinnati, Columbus (O.), Pittsburgh Feds, Jeannette and Binghamton in the order named.

KNETZER IS DRAWING near to a quarter of a century in professional baseball. He isn't far behind old Jack Quinn in point of durability, and he's still starting games regularly and going the route, whereas Quinn is doing only relief work. The season of 1932 will be the twenty-fourth for Elmer, yet he's still rated with the best in the minors, a wise old head and an arm that has retained its strength and cunning despite the passing of the years forming a combination that's a nightmare to the opposing batters. Knetzer has seen a lot of them come and go. He's still winning games from husky youngsters who had not been born when he started. Clean habits and right living explain it in part. In addition, Elmer learned his trade at a time when a pitcher had to know how to pitch instead of being merely a thrower.*

EASTERN TURFMEN THOUGH conceding that Phar Lap may be all that has been claimed for him, refuse to join in calling him a "wonder horse" just because of his victory in the Agua Caliente Handicap. They recollect that in 1926, enthusiastic westerners tacked the same title on Carlaris after he had won the Coffroth Handicap at Tia Juana in 2:02 3-5 for the mile and a quarter.

Yet when he came East, Carlaris was a complete bust. He was beaten in race after race, and didn't taste victory until he managed to finish first in an event of minor importance at Bowie in the fall. Perhaps Phar Lap will be different, but until he has met and defeated Twenty Grand, Mate, Equipoise, Jamestown and Questionaire, easterners feel that he can't be termed a "wonder horse" with safety or turf intelligence. He may be all that, but his Agua Caliente victory alone does not prove it.

ANOTHER THING UNDER discussion now is the Australian record of 2:02 1-5 for a mile and a quarter, credited to Par Lap, while carrying 138 pounds. That record was made on a turf course, and the argument has to do with whether or not a turf course is slower than our dirt tracks.

Battling Battalino

Most Americans say it is, but Henry King recalls that the late Pierre Lorillard built two courses, one of turf and the other of dirt, at his Rancocas farm in New Jersey and found that in dry weather all of his horses could run just as fast on the turf as on the dirt, though in rainy weather the turf was a few seconds slower.

THE OLD FARGO EXPRESS continues to roll on. Even Battling Battalino couldn't flag it. In scoring a technical knockout over the former featherweight champion in the twelfth round, after beating him all the way, Billy Petrolle did a more impressive job than in any of his previous sensational achievements since he defeated Jimmy McLarnin in their first meeting. There can be no doubt of his right to be ranked as the greatest of all comebacks and the outstanding fighter of the present day in any class. It may be argued that Battalino might have done better but for the cut over the bridge of his nose, which caused him to lose a great deal of blood, but there is no getting away from the fact that he was outboxed, outpunched, outsmarted and outdone in everything else except gameness, so there can be no question that the better man won.*

BRIGGS QUINTET ENTERS FRAY UNDERDOG

By JULIUS LEVIN

The P. I. A. A. eliminations for the state basketball championship will be resumed on two battlefronts tomorrow night as contenders for the eastern and western regional titles strive to qualify for the final battle to be played at State College on April 2.

Tomorrow night in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, Braddock High School, recently crowned champion of the W. P. I. A. L., which victory qualified it as the District 7 representative in the state playoffs, meets Fifth Avenue High, District 8 titlist, for the right to engage Strong Vincent, of Erie, next Wednesday in Sharon for the western regional laurels.

Palmerton, District 11 champion, engages Steelton, District 6 standard-bearer, tomorrow night at Allentown for the privilege of clashing with Old Forge, District 2 champion, in the Eastern regional final on Wednesday. This winner will meet the survivor of the western playoffs for the state championship.

FIFTH AVE. UNDERDOG

Fifth Avenue, victor over Huntingdon, District 6 representative, last Saturday, will enter its battle with Braddock the underdog. Fifth Avenue finished third in the City League fight, but being the highest ranking member of the Walsh circuit holding membership in the state group, it automatically entered the eliminations as District 8 representative.

Coach Chester Briggs will use Ruben and Pugliano at forward, Garcia at center, and Terlecki and Mahlmood at guard. The Braddock lineup will be the same as that which defeated New Kensington for the W. P. I. A. L. title. Kreiling and Kryzwicki will be at forward, Hale at center, and Buckley and Gostowski at guards.

School Notes

Palmerton, champion of District 11 in the state playoffs, has won 21 straight games this season. West Chester, District 1 champion, was defeated in the first elimination game, 29-21. Bill Brancher is coach of the Easterners.

East Pittsburgh will pay tribute to its high school basketball champions at a banquet to be held on Thursday, March 31. Johnny Coleman's boys won the championship of section XVII, but were eliminated by Swissvale in the first round of the eliminations, 16-9. Swissvale was the champ of Section XI.

A squad of 60 boys has turned out for the first baseball team in the history of Canonsburg High school. The candidates will be a member of section III and will open the season on April 19 with Trinity, of Washington.

Tournament play is nothing new for Fifth Avenue High School. Fifth Avenue has competed in the state championship at State College and one year was a semi-finalist in the national tournament held in the University of Chicago.

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Hard work and plenty of it will be served the members of the Pittsburgh Pirate ball team during their stay in this city, according to an announcement made last night by Manager Gibson.

The Bucco's have been going at a light pace since they departed from their Paso Robles training camp two weeks ago, but due to the warm weather which has prevailed here from now on things will be changed.

STIFF WORK AHEAD

Cold weather which greeted and remained with the Pirates during their stay in San Francisco, made it necessary for Manager Gibson to hold only light drills and consequently the Buccos have been set back somewhat in their training.

The lack of work plainly was visible as the Pirates dropped the opening game of the local series to the New York Giants, 5-1, yesterday.

The Pirates and Giants will tangle in the second and final game of their series at Wrigley Field today. Neill Harris who has been showing great form to date, will be the mound selection for the Buccos.

The Bucco skipper intends to have his team on edge to meet toughest opposition it has faced thus far in games with the Giants, Cubs and Detroit Tigers.

KREMER STILL OUT

The majority of the mound stars are in great physical condition, and need nothing more than a few workouts to taper off the rough edges. This will be taken care of within the next few days, according to the Buc boss.

Gibson has only one member of his hurling corps out of action at the present time. Remy Kremer, who caught a cold in his pitching arm just before leaving Paso Robles is still on the sidelines, Gibson giving him plenty of time to recover from his ailment.

Carl Hubbell outpitched Larry French yesterday. The two lefthanders were in excellent form.

The McGrawmen scored in the second on a walk, a hit, an error and a passed ball. They added three more in the fourth on three hits including a home run by Ott.

MEINE STILL HOLDOUT

The Bucs rounded in the sixth on L. Waner's single and a long fly by Comorosky. The Giants added one more in the eighth on Ott's double and sacrifice hits by Marshall and Verges.

Gibson is losing no sleep over the absence of Heinie Meine who turned down a voluntary boost in salary and has refused to accept a subsequent increase. Of a dozen hurlers with the team, three or four must go before the

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The bumper crop of classy rookies harvested for the impending season in the major leagues may prove a big help in carrying the Good Ship Baseball across the troubled waters anticipated by many observers. The impressive lads destined to show with the various clubs are likely to be an added attraction of much worth.

In the important matter of interesting boys it is pleasant to note that the Pirates are in a happy position in this regard, if only the lads whose names have appeared in the headlines since the training season started will hold to their pace.

George Gibson has a flock of fascinating youngsters in Floyd Vaughn, Tony Piet, Howdy Groskiow, Floyd Young, Gus Dugas, Forrest Jensen, Dave Barbee, Hal Finney, Bill Brenzel, Charley Wood, Bill Swift and one or two others. Truly the Pittsburgh cast of sophomores is a gripping one and one that may give the game some real luminaries before another Leap Year arrives.

Among the snappy kids who have come to light in other rosters are: Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, of the Cardinals; Stanley Hack, Bill Herman and Harry Taylor, of the Cubs; Bobby Reis, of the Dodgers; Al Todd and George Knothe, of the Phillies; Bill Akers, Art Shires and Bobby Brown, of the Braves, and Joe Morrises, of the Reds.

You may look over the entire field of major league clubs, however, and in none will you find as many youngsters of potential strength as are sheltered under Gibson's wing. And George has been in the game too long to be deceived by training camp flashes; when he says he is reminded of Honus Wagner as he sees Floyd Vaughan romp, the remark should be taken for what it is worth.

The Pittsburgh club of the past dozen years has been extremely fortunate in acquiring sensational lads who did not lose their radiance in facing the test required in big-league play. In the past several years you have read much about a scarcity of bush-league stars, but apparently the Pittsburgh agents have been able to land the prizes where other sleuths have failed.

Gibby has so many promising kids he surely must be perplexed, for he cannot put many of them in regular berths. It has been shown that, regardless of the ability of young performers of the diamond, you must have better than a sprinkling of veterans if you would have team-play.

Gibson is faced by the flat proposition of putting a kid behind the plate. He has no alternative. Finney, Brenzel and Grace are all in their 20's, and one of them must be in there, but as regards the shortfield, where Vaughan shines so brightly, the pilot can call upon Tommy Thevenow, who, though he can hat like a star, is one of the best defensive players in his position.

Yet when the skipper looks across from short to second he realizes he must call upon another recruit. Piet and Groskloss are the candidates for this job with a chance that Young may push himself into the picture. And Suhr is hardly a veteran at first base. So you see Gibby must rely on four "rooks" for regular duty. Fortunately, his striplings have much to commend them.

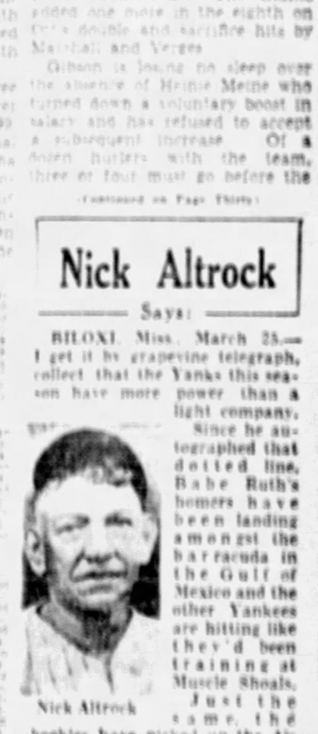
W. VA. AFTER THIEF

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 25.—(AP.)—West Virginia University's varsity squad is scouring for a coach that was robbed Coach Eddie Rodgers' pocketbook while the squad was practicing one day last week. The thief, lured through a wire net and locked Rodgers' pocketbook, containing $28.

RICHARDS LEADS ALL-EVENTS

With 1626 pins to his credit, Richards took the lead in the all-events of the Pennsylvania and Ohio duckpin tourney being held at the Strand alleys here last night. Princin moved into second place with 1614. Shearer had high single game 270 while Cloud and Schietroma are setting the pace for high doubles game with 384. Collins Restaurant recorded high five-man team game with 909, in the special events.

Medic had high tally for three games yesterday, he knocking over the pins for a grand total of 589 with 209, 188 and 202 individual games. Cloud and Schietroma were well in the lead in the two-men event, bowling 1030, while Meadow Gold Dairy of Kittanning, Pa., led in the five-men team rolling, with 2396. The scores



M'ANDREWS CAPTAIN

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 25.—(AP.)—Ed McAndrews, of Pittsburgh, has been elected captain of the Penn State baseball team for the coming season. McAndrews, a shortstop, batted .333 last season and was undefeated in nine bouts this season.

Nick Altrock Says:

BILOXI, Miss., March 25.—I get it by grapevine telegraph, collect that the Yanks this season have more power than a light company.

Nick Altrock

Since he autographed that dotted line, Babe Ruth's homers have been landing amongst the barracuda in the Gulf of Mexico and the other Yankees are hitting like they'd been training at Muscle Shoals. Just the same, the bookies have picked up the A's and Cards to win the pennants. They figure history not only will repeat itself, but they even have it stuttering.

However, bookmakers aren't always right. I once knew a couple of them to be so wrong they skipped out of town.

CONFERENCE BANS SPORTS SCHOLARSHIPS

TRI-STATE LOOP ADOPTS POLICY FOR 1933

By JESS CARVER

The boys are sitting back today stewing over this non-scholarship proposition that has been adopted by the good old Tri-State Intercollegiate Conference. They don't quite know how to take it or what its effects if any will be. Unless there is a joker in the deck though the effects should be rather far reaching.

At a very special meeting yesterday at the Fort Pitt Hotel representatives from all member schools Geneva Bethany Thiel Westminster Grove City and Waynesburg with unofficial observers from Allegheny sitting in decided by a vote of four to two to do away with all athletic scholarships in the future beginning with 1933. The athletes in school now on such scholarships will be taken care of but no new ones will be awarded.

As a result of the action it is very likely that Allegheny always on the outside heretofore will come popping in and join hands with the other Class B institutions of the district. Athletic Director Way and the new Methodist football coach Waldo Tippin were on hand for yesterday's gathering and intimated afterwards that they believed their school would now be able to see its way clear toward joining the Conference.

OPPOSITION STRONG

The resolution that was finally passed yesterday did not clear the boards without much discussion. It met with serious opposition and only crashed over by two votes.

The schools through their presidents really were led into taking the action by the American Association of Colleges and Universities with which all Tri-State Conference schools are affiliated. The association notified its members some time ago that strictly athletic scholarships must be done away with or else to put it in the manner of the less ethically they'd get the old boot. There was little then that the schools could do.

MEETING SECRET

Athletic scholarships are out but it was decided to permit the granting of scholarships on a scholastic basis so that if an outstanding athlete sports an exceptional classroom record at the same time he may be assisted through school. It is probable that even these scholarships will be very much limited.

The meeting was closed to outsiders A. C. Edgecomb of Geneva acting as official spokesman. He refused to divulge the way in which the vote was split.

Norman W. Franke has been elected swimming captain at Carnegie Tech, succeeding Bill Edwards of Homestead. Franke lives at 29 Wellsford street and has been a member of the Skibo swimming team for two years. He is a junior in the chemical engineering department.

The championship of the Carnegie Intramural Basketball League was won by Englebrecht Hall.

Kress Dissatisfied, But Accepts Terms

ST. LOUIS, March 25. (AP.)—Ralph Red Kress, holdout of the St. Louis Browns, today wired his acceptance of the 1932 contract terms to President Phill Ball with the comment that he was acceding only because he had no choice.

In reply to a wire from Ball asserting "You have temporized with us too long already which has caused your head to swell," Kress telegraphed:

"Have to accept, but not a case of wanting to. I sure have lots to be swellheaded about, working for the Browns for a measly $9,000 and being a major league star."

Had Kress not accepted when he did, Ball's offer would have been reduced to $7,500. The Brown's president made clear in an exchange of telegrams yesterday. This was the amount of Kress' 1931 contract.

WRESTLERS SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, March 25. (AP.)—Two of the five wrestlers suspended for the second time by Referee Ed Widdoss of Boston when they refused to continue their bout here last night, were under suspension from New York commission, it was learned today. The two, Jim Londos, Greek champion, and Ray Steele, Nebraska cowboy, were suspended in New York for refusing to wrestle in the dark when the lights went out during their bout. The other three suspended here were Jim Browning and Pete Mehlos, Philadelphia, and Charley Strickler, Lancaster, Pa., who refused to continue after the lights went out during their bout.

CITY LOOP SET

RELIANCE NINE IS ADMITTED TO CIRCUIT

By TOM BIRKS

The admittance of the Reliance Life baseball team into the City League, making the sixth club, and the closing of the loop, marked the third meeting of the circuit at Books last night.

Unless the managers and officials change their minds, the six clubs to face the tape early in May will be Dormont, defending champion; Homewood, Book, Reliance Life, North Siders, and J. L. Thomas.

Reliance will be under the leadership of George Miller, as business manager, and Cy Rheam, former Federal League star, playing manager. The home games will be played at the new Bellevue Athletic Field.

The election of officers also took place. Harry Yerx again was named president; Everett Sweeney, secretary, and Fred Alger, treasurer. Those attending were Art Rooney, Buck Besterling, Ed Buch, Hank Daly, Pip Contestible, Ray Kennedy, Cy Rheam, George Miller, Meyers, Mart Kenny and Johnny Dunsky.

The Carrick Eagles, Ingomar and Frank Ferris also attended, but evidently the managers felt that they were not strong enough to stand City League competition.

President Yerx named a rules committee, composed of Hank Daly, Ray Kennedy and Ed Buch, and the managers will pass upon the report of this committee within two weeks. The umpire question caused a long debate and this angle probably will be dealt with by another special committee.

The proposed regulation of players, and the right of managers to have a reserve clause at the season's end, also was discussed, but not acted upon.

He climbed to fourth place in the all-events with a nine-game total of 1909 and paired with Ray Hartnagel, gained a tie for fifth place in the doubles with J. Gunderson and J. Roscoe, Chicago. The St. Louis pair's score was originally checked in at 1254, but the official final checkup showed it to be 1255.

Held and Perkins May Lose Status

NEW YORK, March 25.—The Metropolitan Golf Association has appointed a committee to investigate and consider violations of the amateur rule of the United States Golf Association. The committee is composed of Stacey Bender, president of the M. G. A.; Mason B. Starring, Jr., and Livingston Platt.

In discussing the new committee Bender said he hoped the pending investigation would serve as a "warning" to those who have regarded amateur status too lightly.

It is believed the U. S. G. A. has pointed its finger at three men under suspicion of having violated the amateur code. As soon as the committee feels in the spirit of functioning it is expected to summon before it Eddie Held, Pennington Miller-Jones and Phil Perkins and ask them to show cause they should not be shorn of their amateur status.

Although no announcement has been made as to what the charges against each will be, it is believed that Perkins is suspected of profiting from his play in the southern amateur tournaments.

Speedboat Racers Under 'Plot' Probe

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—Officials of the American Power Boat Association disclosed today an investigation is under way to determine the validity of charges that nine American motorboat racers in last week's Biscayne Bay regatta at Miami purposely lured Charles H. Harrison, of England, across the starting line ahead of the signal.

George H. Townsend, president of the association, and Charles F. Chapman, chairman of the association's outboard racing committee, passing through Savannah en route from Miami to New York, confirmed reports of the investigation and suspension of the drivers.

Chapman said the accusations that the American drivers purposely "beat" the gun at the start of the final heat in the Col. E. H. R. Green trophy race in order to trick the Englishman across the line and disqualify him, appeared well founded because of a statement by one of the drivers.

Craig Wood Leads North-South Play

Bill Amos, former football coach and athletic star of Washington and Jefferson College, who was gravely injured yesterday in a collision of his automobile and a truck, was reported somewhat improved at the South Side Hospital, although he is not yet out of danger.

The three were en route here from Washington, Pa., to arrange for an American Legion benefit entertainment in their home town, when Amos' car crashed into a truck owned by R. A. Wilbour, of West Virginia.

The truck was hurled against an abutment, and the automobile was demolished. The accident occurred on the Bethel road, at Walther stop, on the outskirts of Mt. Lebanon.

Wall Street is Being Swayed by Washington

By B. C. FORBES

I HAVE JUST finished a tour of Wall Street which included heart-to-heart talks with financial notables. Here's what's what:

Hopefulness, which had been rising encouragingly, has again given way to uneasiness. Why?

FIRST, THE reckless irresponsibility exhibited by Congress has produced a most disturbing and disillusioning effect. The statesmanship, the co-operation, the cohesion exhibited in the House, especially by the Democrats, were beginning to cause the financial world to conclude:

Mr. Forbes

"If a Democratic President should be elected, there is no need to become apprehensive. The Democrats are acting sensibly and are submitting to leadership and discipline."

Alas, the rebellion in the House, participated in alike by Democrats and Republicans, is worrying the financial community, especially as the substitutes offered for the sales tax are considered absurd and abortive.

Second, the reintroduction of the Glass bank bill is throwing bankers into panic and worrying brokers. When Senator Glass consented to have the truly constructive Glass-Steagall bill given preference over his original alarming measure, the banking community concluded that no further immediate effort would be made to pass what they call "punitive," deflatory legislation.

But Senator Glass is once more insisting upon forcing upon the country his multifarious banking changes. Bankers declare most emphatically—and practically unanimously—that passage of the Glass bill would undo every constructive achievement already accomplished. They vehemently contend that this is not the time to throw a monkey wrench into the functioning of our banking system.

While they do not believe that the measure can possibly hurdle the House, the Senate and a conference committee they are nevertheless acutely uneasy.

THIRD, THE proposed 65 per cent surtax on large incomes, is interpreted not merely as Communistic in its motive, but as a snare and a delusion from a revenue-raising standpoint. One of our most influential financiers, payer of a gigantic income tax, frankly said to me:

"A 72 per cent federal tax, combined with the state income tax, would mean handing over to the government three-fourths of one's income. I know nobody who would be foolhardy enough to put a million dollars into an enterprise were the government to claim three out of every four dollars of possible profit. I do know rich men would rather invest in tax-exempt securities and keep their income.

"The proposal, from a practical point of view, is childish. Were the government to depend upon such exorbitant tax rates to make good any substantial part of its deficit, it would find itself in a hole."

FOURTH, THE financial world is disappointed over the absence of definite trade or industrial improvement.

The hope had been cherished that the reassuring, helpful, fundamentally important, constructive work done by Washington would lead to betterment in business following the acknowledged betterment in banking conditions. Before business had had a fair chance to exhibit returning confidence, Congress went off at a tangent, flouted recognized leaders, championed ill-considered legislation—and upset the whole apple cart.

FIFTH—AND please understand that I am acting as a reporter of financial sentiment, not as a political partisan—the chances of Democratic victory in November are regarded as having been drastically reduced.

SHORTAGE SEEN AS BUSINESS INFLUENCE

Commodities Consumption Rate Extremely Small, Showing Low Inventories

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Actual consumption of perishable and durable commodities has been surprisingly small for months, and it indicates that inventories of things in general in private families are being used up. Accordingly, shortages are in the making, and will be an effective business influence when confidence has been fully restored.

Not all industrial executives blow hot and cold with the stock market. Some have gone ahead quietly and improved their operating methods and plant equipment to be ready for a revival of trade which they hope some day will come.

Mr. Rukeyser

READY FOR UPSWING

For example, E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Company and the Midland Steel Products Company, believes that the companies destined for the quickest come-back when recovery starts are those whose plants have been maintained at a high degree of efficiency during the depression.

Translating his long term optimism into bricks and mortar, Mr. Kulas has built for Otis Steel during the last year a new continuous strip mill improvement costing more than $4,000,000. Out of earnings in the last seven years, the company has made cash expenditures of $34,120,852, including $6,693,100 for dividends, $12,120,039 for capital expenditures and $15,307,701 for plant maintenance.

DEFERRED DEMAND

In giving the reasons for his long term hopefulness, Mr. Kulas, in a statement prepared for this column, said:

"When you stop to think that the rate of steel production of the past six months has been less than 500 pounds per capita, or the lowest since 1900, it is evident either that America is going back to the horse-and-buggy days or that outputs have fallen below the normal minimum requirements of the country. I am convinced that a large deferred demand is accumulating for steel and that this will not be long in becoming apparent when the world financial stress, now definitely over its acute phases, is further cleared away.

"Meanwhile, industrial enterprises which hope to be in the running when improvement comes, cannot afford to let their plants run down in repair or grow obsolete."

Plate Glass Output Is Concentrated in Hands Of Two Large Makers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

RAPID CHANGES in the markets for glass, falling prices and new manufacturing methods have been most noticeable in their effects in the plate glass field. Today the bulk of production is in the hands of two commercial producers. These are Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Company. The Ford Motor Company is the only automobile maker now producing its own glass. Consolidation and bankruptcy have eliminated most of the other important commercial plate glass companies. There are more window glass makers, but the number of competitors has been materially reduced.

Concentration of the bulk of plate glass production into the hands of two companies is expected to result in material improvement in the industry in the future. Both organizations have gone through the expensive process of modernizing plants. Both are strong financially. Both are well managed.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass has been reconstructing its plants to meet modern requirements for the past seven years. Its operations at Creighton and Ford City, Pa., are numbered among the finest of plate glass plants. This company also has been extending its production into the sheet glass field. A new plant recently was completed at Henryetta, Okla., and older window glass plants at Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mt. Vernon, O., have been remodeled with modern sheet drawing machinery.

Libby-Owens Expands Through Consolidation

THE PRESENT Libby-Owens-Ford Company was formed by the consolidation of several producers. Originally it was a sheet glass maker which gradually extended into the plate glass field by polishing its heavier production of glass. The organization was exceptionally successful and was able to show profits in many years when the window glass industry in general was not making money. Its principal plants were at Charleston, W. Va.; Toledo, O., and Shreveport, La.

In 1928 it acquired the Fairfield Sheet Glass Company at Lancaster, O., and an interest in the Adamsen Flat Glass Company at Clarksburg, W. Va.

In 1930 it bought the Edward Ford Plate Glass Company at Rossford, O. This company had just completed a modernization program which brought its entire equipment up to the newest standards.

In April, 1931, it further expanded through the purchase of the glass factories of the National Plate Glass Company at Ottowa, Ill. This was a subsidiary of General Motors. Only a year before General Motors had built a modern addition to this plant to meet new conditions in the industry.

The last step was taken this year when Libby-Owens-Ford acquired the plants and patents of the Triplex Safety Glass Company, pioneer organization in its field.

Standard Plate Glass Operated Under Lease

THE STANDARD PLATE Glass Company, which formerly held an important position in the industry, went into receivership in May, 1929, when it was unable to arrange for the refunding of a maturing bond issue. The Butler (Pa.) plant of this company is now being operated on a lease arrangement. The plant does not make automobile glass but specialized in the larger sizes of plate for store fronts. It is able to make larger plates than any other American manufacturer.

The American Plate Glass Corporation plant at Kane, Pa., has been idle for several years. This is a subsidiary of Durant Motors, Inc. The plant recently was sold and may be operated by new interests.

The glass plants of the Ford Motor Company are idle. The Rouge plant is being remodeled at present. This plant was designed expressly for automobile work. The Glassmere (Pa.) plant has older equipment and plans for its future are uncertain.

PROBE GUNPLAY ON CAMPUS

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 25.—(AP)—Denial that firearms were carried by engineering students involved in the shooting affair Tuesday night in which three University of Missouri undergraduates were wounded as a sequel to the "kidnaping" of a St. Pat's Queen chosen by the engineering students, has been made before Dr. A. Ben K. Heckel, dean of men.

University authorities are conducting a thorough investigation of the shooting and Walter Williams, president, has promised that students who are found culpable will be summarily dealt with. Conflicting stories so far have marked the investigation.

Meanwhile Frank Luckey, most seriously wounded of the three students, continued to show improvement, although his condition still is serious, it was said at the university hospital. Pending the outcome of his wound, Burnis Frederick, law student who admitted he fired the shots, but only after he was attacked by a group of engineering students, was being held in $1,000 bond on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

MAYOR RESIGNS IN VICE CASE

DETROIT, March 25.—(AP)—Rudolph G. Tenerowicz, who was convicted last week of conspiracy to permit and protect vice, has resigned as Mayor of the suburb of Hamtramck.

He told City Council yesterday he will devote his time to his "vindication" on an appeal of the verdict convicting him and three other men. To Gov. Wilber M. Brucker, who set an ouster hearing for March 31, he wrote that he desired to avoid additional expense to the state.

The Council elected Peter C. Jeszewski, former mayor and now a candidate for the office, to succeed Tenerowicz. The latter's term had but a few weeks to run, and he had been defeated for renomination.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XLIV.

Without resentment Lily Lou wiped off Blumenthal's kiss. She had no illusions about him. She knew that she was marked to succeed Mademoiselle Dejere, not only as Micaela in Carmen, but in Blumenthal's plans. Oh well! What's a kiss and a pinch? And as for the rest of it, she'd wiggle out of it some way. Nahlman would help her. She knew how to handle these men.

The armhole in the silver and lace dress was fixed. Nahlman was happy. Melting with love for triumphant Lily Lou. Exuberant over her own overwhelming success.

"Now you're started there'll be no stopping you," she rattled on to Lily Lou, while Susanne painstakingly arranged the folds of the skirt, crawling on her knees on the none too clean floor.

"You'll never make the dramatic success that I do. You're not the type. But you can't expect that. Only one artist in a generation does that. But with your looks and your perfect colorature—if you take care of it—you'll win. Gilda should be the next part. The Paris Opera will be open all summer—for the tourists. I with my influence can arrange for your Gilda, perhaps another role also. I may stay to do some roles myself. Maybe Aida . . . you have never heard my Aida. You will hear them stand and shout then . . . But Italy is the place they appreciate you. Dresden, too . . . We may go to Dresden. The blessed Dresden Opera . . . some of my greatest triumphs—in the Ring—my Elsa . . . Susanne you cow! You'll pull off my skirt . . . Now . . . do I look my best, Lily? For my big last act? My hair . . . Susanne, look at the skirt . . . Now leave me . . . I am Carmen again—

LEAVES EARLY

Oh, the thrill! To stand in the wings, to feel herself part of this great production. To be part of the festivities afterward. To be presented to other artists, critics, musicians, to have the important Blumenthal rake that he was singing her praises, trying to get her alone.

Madame Nahlman put her warm arms about her. "Dear Lily, my good friend. Do not let your head be turned. No man . . . understand me . . . no man is worth it . . ."

Lily Lou wanted to laugh, but she felt ashamed. As if any man, Blumenthal or any other, mattered to her, except as he could further her career.

"And now, my child, go home. You are tired. Your first night. You must rest. I will make your excuses. That is wise?"

"Yes—I'll call a taxi. I am tired," Lily said. But she did not want to go. It would have been fun to have had supper with Nahlman, and the others . . . even with Blumenthal . . .

She wondered what the papers would say of her . . . the conservative French press . . . perhaps they wouldn't say anything . . . Micaela was such a small part, still she had made the most of it . . . she knew that . . .

VISIONS FUTURE

Creaking home in the taxi she begun to sing softly . . . not the part she had just sung . . . Carmen's aria . . . She'd sing that, too, some day . . . though it was a bit low for her.

Gilda . . . that was all right to start with. She'd do it at the opera here, and be acclaimed for her perfection, then something more dramatic, more appealing. Mignon. Butterfly . . . even Marguerite and Lucia would be better than Gilda and as Violetta in Traviata . . .

She let her fancy slip ahead . . . saw herself, as she used to do in the roles she dreamed of . . . ragged and lovely as Mignon, regal in crimson velvet as Tosca . . . she'd do Tosca, soon, too.

Before her dreaming eyes the lights of the Paris Grand Opera blazed . . . she saw the magnificent white marble stairways, the glittering crystal candelabra, heard the thud of the baton, saw the curtain going up . . .

Yes, and Vienna, too . . . the opera there that she never saw. She must sing there. The lovely, quaint place with its magnificent approach, the winged horses, the Siegfried and Don Juan candelabra.

THINKS OF BABY

The taxi jerked to a stop. She was home. With an overgenerous tip for the driver, she ran up the stairs to Nahlman's apartment, singing softly to herself . . . stopped for a moment . . . heard the departing concierge whistling the Carmen aria, too.

She wished that Mme. Nahlman had come home . . . or that she could have stayed to have supper with her . . . She went into the kitchen to make chocolate, and find something to eat. How cold and barren European kitchens were . . . back home everything was handy. You could dip into the ice box and . . .

The baby . . . Lily Lou went cold all over. What kind of woman was she? To forget him. To come home, her head full of herself and her silly little triumph, and make herself chocolate . . .

In her room, the room with the big bed, and the little one in it, the Bonne sat dozing in her chair, crocheted lace cap a little askew. The room was warm and airless, the night light burned very low.

The Bonne was speaking. "It is not measles, the doctor said. Just nothing. The good God only knows why it should have looked like measles. The doctor himself, madame, said it was very like. But there is nothing to disturb one. You see, he sleeps, and it is time that you and I, madame, should sleep—"

A torrent of tears flooded her heart. She ought to fling herself on her knees . . . to thank God . . . but she could not move, could not stop looking at him. Such a tiny thing to be so like Ken.

She was back in a little country town in Northern California. The first pale morning light was coming through the open windows of the crude hotel room. And he was sleeping, the light on his fair head.

She sank to her knees, tried to stifle the sobs that were having their way with her, in the down of the baby's coverlet.

The Bonne woke up. She said in her French patois:

"But he is better, madame. Did I not tell you? You will frighten him, le pauvre petit—"

"Yes, yes—I see—"

And Lily Lou wept again.

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. Later Lily Lo explains her circumstances to the singer, expecting the offer to be withdrawn. She is invited to take the trip regardless and decides to do so. They go to England first and then to France. They go to Vienna, where Lily Lou becomes ill. She becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris, where, through an injury to one of the singers, Lily Lou gets her first chance to sing in opera.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Takes Precautions to Safeguard Children

It seemed an eternity, although, indeed, it was but a few hours that we of the farmhouse waited to hear the verdict upon the wounded, almost lifeless Chinese, whom Hank and Bill had found in the cornfield.

The doctor arrived within a few minutes after we did, and Lillian obeyed Katherine's injunction to "send him in a-running." He had no sooner entered the library than Dicky came out, outwardly calm, but really much excited, as I, who have conjugated his every mood and tense for years, knew very well.

"They don't need me until after the doctor has made his examination," he said, with an effort to appear nonchalant, "so I guess I'll proceed to make things safe for the democratic Grahams around here. Where are the kids?"

WANTS KIDDIES INSIDE

"With father, I suppose," I answered. "They were, a few minutes ago, and your mother has Baby Faith. Why?"

The question was like an explosion, for I could no longer keep the terror which was consuming me—the fear that the Chinese who had demanded Lillian's lock box might strike again in the same deadly fashion that had brought their recreant messenger so near death.

"Oh! nothing," Dicky said airily, "except that it mightn't be a bad idea to keep 'em all in the house for the rest of the day. That playroom basement is the coolest spot there is anywhere and the upstairs veranda is cool, too. It is much better for them, really, than being out in the sun, and I know you'll feel better about it."

I was conscious that my voice was waspish and that I was taking out upon Dicky the hysterical fear which was mine for the children.

FEARS CHINESE

"Absolutely unruffled," Dicky's smile was a bit wry, though creditable. "Now, if your aching to do something, you might go and look up the kids. That doctor's got to check up on a lot of things before he makes a decision, and I want to say a word or two to the Chief. Where's Lil?"

The query was quick and sharp, and with a feeling of rising panic I saw that Dicky meant to set every member of the household at the task of guarding the farmhouse against the Chinese desperadoes who had almost done to death their messenger.

Dicky must share my fear, I told myself. It was a fear which had been with me ever since the first appearance of the frightened Chinese messenger at the farmhouse. The terror of the man when I had refused to surrender Marion's lock box, which the men employing him had commanded him to bring back to them, had communicated itself to me. Then, when, in the Ticer farmhouse, I had been menaced by the Chinese outside the window who demanded the rice paper message which had been pinned to the cushion of my car, my fear had changed to panic. It was a panic not lessened by the knowledge that the man had meant to throw something blinding, disfiguring, into my face at my refusal to surrender the letter, and had only been prevented from carrying out his intention by my readiness in threatening him with the little silencer pistol Lillian had insisted upon my carrying.

RUNS TO CHILD

I knew the persistence, malevolence, the determination of the men who had so cruelly hurt the poor chap stretched out unconscious in the library. If they had wrecked such vengeance upon a poor, humble messenger who had tried faithfully to perform his mission, what might they not be planning for me who had defied their mandates upon two separate occasions?

Never have I considered myself a coward, but as I went up the stairs to the nursery, I found myself going over all the accounts of Oriental tortures I ever had read. If I fell into their hands—and then with a passion of self-loathing, I realized that in my dread of what might happen to my own body I had forgotten for the moment something of infinitely more importance—the probability that these human fiends would try to strike me through my children.

With a sob in my throat, I tore up the stairs to the nursery and burst in upon my mother-in-law.

"Is the baby here?" I gasped.

Why doesn't every girl who has such a hard time every month adopt this simple, harmless discovery that makes suffering just a memory? Tiny tablets that banish such pain!

Midol is not a narcotic, but it does banish suffering during the painful period, or from headaches, colds, etc. It acts quite harmlessly, but effectively; complete comfort in five to seven minutes. You will get this relief regardless of how hard a time you've always had. These tablets don't hinder the normal periodic process in any way. All drugstores have them. Just ask for Midol.

It was Prof. Prodfoote who took an optimistic view when he discovered that people were putting money in mattresses instead of banks. Sales Tax Rejection Democrats Make Sad Showing as House Strikes Blow at Business Recovery and National Credit.

The House of Representatives, after adjourning last Friday because it was "in no condition of mind to legislate," has, after a resumption of disorderly and violent debate, rejected the proposed sales tax.

The measure which it defeated yesterday could hardly be called a sales tax, so comprehensive was the list of articles exempted from its provisions. Despite these exemptions, however, which were thrown out as a sop to the boisterous element which claimed that the tax was a hardship upon the poor, the emasculated measure would nevertheless have produced more revenue than any alternative source or group of sources which exist.

The Democratic party has made the sorriest of showings. Although it has a majority of the House, and had the support of almost the full strength of the Republican minority, the Democratic leadership of the house was NOT EQUAL TO THE TASK of holding the party in line in this FIRST MAJOR TEST of its ability to serve the national interest in an hour of emergency.

The lower branch of the national legislature seems to have been captured by the LEAST RELIABLE, if not the most dangerous elements, of its membership. The Democratic party stands before the country today committed to the idea of a forced redistribution of wealth by means of CONFISCATORY TAXATION, frankly in the interests of certain classes of the people as against other classes.

This was tried in England by the Labor party. The result was the dole and a succession of extravagances which laid such a burden upon British credit and industry, as well as the individual taxpayer, that England was brought to the brink of ruin.

The result was that the Labor party, which had frankly entered upon a program of maintaining itself in power by the irresponsible and wasteful spending of the nation's income, was hurled from power by the supposed beneficiaries of its blind and prodigal policy—the members of the Labor party itself.

The American people are not easy to deceive. They can see as far as their noses. They know that the demagogic members of the House, WHO HAVE, PERHAPS FATALLY, COMPROMISED THE PRIMARY DUTY of the hour—TO BALANCE THE BUDGET—have not been actuated by the motives they profress, or even the feelings they avow.

They know that these unworthy elements have delivered a blow at business recovery, and have imperiled the national credit, by indefinitely postponing, if not rendering impossible, the balancing of the budget.

It arouses doubt as to our capacity for self government.

The people's resentment will be strong and deep.

He Deserves No Credit

Gov. Pinchot Discharges Politician He Never Should Have Appointed.

Notwithstanding that Howard Neely, a henchman of Senator James J. Coyne, was accused of questionable conduct in obtaining tax receipts in wholesale lots for use in the primary election, Gov. Pinchot, for political reasons, appointed him a deputy attorney general.

Having fallen out with Senator Coyne, Gov. Pinchot has now discharged Neely. No lofty motive, from all appearances, actuated the Governor. He removed Neely, at the behest of Allegheny County independents, apparently for political reasons only.

Gov. Pinchot deserves no credit for getting rid of Neely, and his course leaves the public cold and cynical. His procedure in this affair has differed not a whit from what one would expect from a gang politician.

Encouraging

Now Is the Time for Civic and Trade Bodies to Get Behind the Movement for State Aid.

Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, states that his organization has conferred with representatives of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board in regard to the proposal that another special session of the Legislature be held to provide relief for the unemployed.

This is at least encouraging.

Every trade and civic body in the county ought to get behind this movement energetically, for selfish as well as for altruistic reasons.

It becomes increasingly apparent that the city and county cannot meet the situation unaided. Suffering is bound to increase unless the commonwealth, with its superior and more varied resources for raising revenue, comes to the rescue.

If the state does not help, the city and county, with scarcely any other way of raising money except through taxation of real estate, will certainly increase real estate taxes if necessary to save people from starving to death.

Property owners individually and through their boards of trade should bring pressure to bear on their representatives in the Legislature and other public officials to get together on a program for state aid.

Killing the Goose—Suicidal Taxation

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

TAXATION was said by Hoffmann, the German financier, to be, of all subjects in the realm of political economy, the most generally misconceived, the most disfigured by false views, and the most degraded by partial study.

This truth was brought home to the American people by last week's flare-up of unconsidered tax proposals in Congress, the immediate effect of which was to deal another and unneeded blow to business confidence, already hanging on the ropes.

The partisan temptation to shift the blame for the national deficit has no particular point. In the extravagant appropriations of the recent past, which account for the deficit, the line of cleavage between the parties is difficult to discern. Demagogy has been on the driver's seat of both parties. Votes have seemed cheap at a few hundred millions, more or less, from the public purse.

Confronted by the results of its extravagance, it is hardly to be expected that Congress will show more insight into the science of administration when it seeks TO CORRECT ITS MISTAKES, than it did when it was COMMITTING them.

THE picture is dispiriting. It gives one something like the shock that George Washington experienced when he paid a visit to the Continental Congress at Philadelphia during the closing days of 1778, when the outlook for independence was black indeed.

It is related of Washington that, staunch believer in Republican institutions as he was, after seeing Congress actually in session, his pessimism grew extreme. It impressed him as a body of "secondary characters only." The country's able men were not there. It seemed to Washington that only "weaklings" had been gathered to transact the country's business.

"The great and important concerns of the nation," wrote Washington, "are horribly conducted, for want either of abilities or application in the members."

Perhaps its general level has risen since then, but it does not speak well for the latter-day Congress that a hurried ADJOURNMENT is the ONLY REFUGE IT CAN FIND FROM ITSELF.

THE trouble with our budget situation is that we have blocked ourselves off from the nation's legitimate sources of indirect revenue and have proceeded on the belief that we can run the nation on an income tax.

On this point, the figures recently given us by Secretary of the Treasury Mills are significant. In 1930, our total receipts from taxation were $3,626,000,000, of which two-thirds was contributed by the income tax. Our total present receipts from taxation are estimated at $2,000,000,000. Of the loss in revenue of more than $1,600,000,000, no less than $1,335,000,000 is accounted for by the falling off of income tax collections.

It is idle for Congress to think it can outstrip the diminishing income of the nation by jacking up the percentages of its levies. The taxing power will find itself in the predicament of the man who owned a Waterbury watch, which, it was said, ran down while he wound it.

The business man, confronted by a 65 per cent surtax in addition to the normal tax (to say nothing of the recently doubled state income tax, as in New York), has no inducement to continue in business.

We shall witness what was so common during the period of heavy taxation in the war years—old houses closing up because the inducement to continue in business had been destroyed.

Of the many instances of this, I recall particularly the case of a friend of mine, who was at the head of an established firm of textile jobbers and factors. The normal income of the business was $1,000,000 annually. The income tax of over 70 per cent reduced the possible net return to a figure which did not cover the normal risks of the business, nor assure the capital and labor, required in its conduct, a justifying return. The business, like many others, was promptly liquidated.

TAXATION is a science. It is a branch of economics. It has its laws. They cannot be disregarded with impunity. They are self-asserting and self-vindicating.

We have the perfect illustration of this, when, in the effort to increase its revenue, the government not only fails of that objective, but DESTROYS THE SOURCES OF THE REVENUE WHICH IT SEEKS TO ENLARGE.

Marry-Go-Round

Inside Stuff

So many young women write me, asking for tips on how to get into the newspaper game, how to become a columnist, and little things like that—that the following "inside stuff" on newspaper women may enlighten and amuse those who long to be sob-sisters or feature writers.

* * *

A newspaper woman is a girl who started out to be a Free Soul, but tripped over a sob-story—and fell into a job.

* * *

She is an untrammeled, independent carefree being, who "lives her own life" and takes orders from NO MAN—except the managing editor, the city editor, the advertising manager and the office boy.

Some newspaper girls still believe that success in journalism consists in finding some nice man who will marry you and take you OUT of it. But your real newspaper girl is wedded to her JOB—and her husband is only the co-respondent.

* * *

There may be lots of things that women don't know about men; but what a newspaper woman doesn't know about the genus homo, after a few years in the game, could be written in long hand on the back of a postage stamp.

* * *

"There is no sex in crime"—or in a newspaper office. Sex-appeal gets a girl about as much in a newspaper office as it would in a subway rush.

* * *

Any girl who goes into a newspaper office prepared to "resist temptation" is going to have an awfully hard struggle—trying to find the "temptations."

Editors are MEN, of course—but only out of office hours. And then they are usually some other woman's man. And the father of two or more bright children.

* * *

* * *

He's not worried about whether or not she's getting the right man. He's worried about "tomorrow's paper" and whether or not she'll get her "copy" in.

* * *

The man who marries a newspaper woman ceases to be a private citizen or a predatory male and becomes just "copy."

* * *

When a newspaper girl hasn't anything to SAY, she writes eight or ten hundred words about it and becomes a "columnist." Like me.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 25.—Thoughts while strolling: Theodore Dreiser grows gloomier all the while. Pale ladies who effect apple-leaf green. And bright red lips. Walter Wanger's tight collars. Charles Winninger begins to suggest Maclyn Arbuckle. Regina Wallace's dazzling smile.

Rarely see Frank Craven without his pipe. One of my favorite ladies—Hattie Belle Johnston. Fur store sign: A mink coat at your price. Every time I dress all up nobody notices. Lowell Thomas, a Woddington, O., boy, who made good in the city. Park Avenue's monocled barber, Lou Forman.

Daddy Browning's block-long Broadway sign is always missing a letter. Never saw anyone in a patrol wagon in New York. That ornate, roofless and empty apartment house on Central Park West. Chevalier's wife wears a short white fur coat, too.

Flora Le Breton tripping along like a flash of April girlhood. The docility of old cab horses. Bernard Sobel breezes by with a blonde. Robert Coleman's burnsides. The cold utter silence of a deserted theater. Overheard: Control yourself. You'll eat at the automat and love it."

Times Square's eternal stampede. No more positive personality than Sinclair Lewis. They say a new Astor Hotel will cover an entire block. Frisco wandering around as homeless as smoke. Herbert Bayard Swope always looks as successful as the Blue Train. Blyth Daly's perky new hair cut.

Broadway wise guys shooting arrows of contempt. And wondering how they'll get the next meal. What's a marchioness? Fred F. French is a ringer for John Galsworthy. Some day I'd like to see Flo Ziegfeld shake the foundations of life with a rousing belly laugh!

* * *

A disturbing touch to the harmonious flowing whole of Murray Hill the other night was an old mansion blazing like pitch in a gulf of blackness. Near dawn a night-watch rang the bell. The owner explained all. "My wife is returning from Europe," he said, "and she reads the electric meters. I'm no fool." And in the good old Pliocene days they called that "using the nut."

* * *

Two actors at the Lambs were discussing probable run of a new play in which they appeared, confident it would last 10 weeks. Owen Davis, Jr., passing by, yank-yanked: "All of Cain's horses and all of Cain's men, will be there soon to get it again."

* * *

The high velocity of recent winds recalls one of Pete Daley's yarns of the 90's. A sailor on shore leave struggled northward from the Battery, in teeth of a swift scour, to see the New York of his dreams for the first time. He was so buffeted in wind-whipped and deserted streets that he got no further than South Pearl. Along this thoroughfare a burst tore loose a flopping sign which struck him on the head and knocked him unconscious. Two months later in a Pacific typhoon a ship officer visited him in the crow's nest and opined it must be the worst storm in history. "Sure is," piped the gob above the whistling roar, "and imagine South Pearl street on a night like this."

* * *

Passing leather-lunged Joe Humphrey today recalls his announcing for a boxing match for social creme de la creme. Resurrecting a dress suit of Terry McGovern's day, he lifted the familiar arm and bellowed: "Laydees and gent-le-mee-n!" A gallery roughneck boomed: "It looks swell, Joe. Buy it!"

* * *

I had a close up of two of France's favorite sons in—of all places—Irish Dinty Moore's corn beefery the other evening. Chevalier and Carpentier at different tables. Chevalier's jutting jaw is more pronounced in intimate peep. He dresses like a mail order farmer off stage and Carpentier is no longer Gorgeous George sartorially either. He seems skewered by life, worn old and punch drunk. As a lesser White Way diagnostician I should prescribe a stayout moratorium for the one time Gallic ring idol.

For some utterly absurd reason I've been longing all day to skip flat stones across a mill pond.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

(Like some poor sheep, I wander with the human flock not knowing why I am nor where I go. I cannot see God's face nor hear His voice, for I am blind with ignorance and deaf with doubt and fear. Yet, as sheep feel the shepherd's guiding will, so do I feel a Force behind my life, and dimly sense a Purpose and a Plan. And when I falter, something in me cries—"Go on! You are not lost—the shepherd knows the fold to which you go.")

(My body may know poverty and pain. But God has placed within me secret springs which shall sustain me when I'm poor and weak. I still have Beauty, when my gold is gone—and Friendship when my pantry shelf is bare—and Courage, like red wine, to warm my soul.)

HE MAKETH ME TO LIE DOWN IN GREEN PASTURES. HE LEADETH ME BESIDE STILL WATERS.

(Earth pastures wither when the winters come; earth waters dry when springtime rains are done. But love has pastures which are ever green and Faith has fountains which no drought can seal.)

HE RESTORETH MY SOUL. HE LEADETH ME IN THE PATHS OF RIGHTEOUSNESS FOR HIS NAME'S SAKE.

(Two selves live in me, one a greedy brute, the other a bright stranger, whom I call my Soul. And often the fierce brute drives out the Soul. But something draws it back to me again, and turns my face once more TO SEEK THE TRUTH.)

YEA, THOUGH I WALK THROUGH THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW OF DEATH I WILL FEAR NO EVIL: FOR THOU ART WITH ME; THY ROD AND THY STAFF THEY COMFORT ME.

(There are many deaths in every life. Death of our loved ones—death of cherished dreams—death of our pride and confidence and peace. Each day death's shadow falls across our path. But bright against the shadow blazes Hope! For always after night the morning comes, and always after winter comes the spring. And not one grain of sand is ever lost. Shall Man, alone, be wasted from God's hand?)

THOU PREPAREST A TABLE BEFORE ME IN THE PRESENCE OF MINE ENEMIES: THOU ANOINTEST MY HEAD WITH OIL; MY CUP RUNNETH OVER.

("Mine Enemies"—they are those foes that live in mine own self—my hate and fear, my envy and conceit, how often they have won the victory! But when I catch a Vision of the truth and lift myself a little higher from the mire, then, for a time, I'm freed from my base self and know the pride and joy of some great conqueror.)

SURELY GOODNESS AND MERCY SHALL FOLLOW ME ALL THE DAYS OF MY LIFE, and I WILL DWELL IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD FOREVER.

My Father's house—that's not some strange, far place, but just the common world in which I spend my days. All of my hours are His arching rooms. My life is built into His living walls. All that I am or do is part of Him. His mercy comprehends my blundering. His goodness girds His weak and stupid child. I cannot go so far that He is left behind.

So, though I do not know the how or why, and though I never yet have seen His face, I need not fear. For where Life goes, I go, and Life Is God. And I am part of His eternal Mystery.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

As a husband or wife are you making an effort to keep up intellectually with your life partner?

If you are not, more than likely you will learn that your life companion is seeking the society of those who are interesting companions.

Even though your partner be too true to seek outside diversion of an intellectual sort in which you cannot join, there is bound to be dissatisfaction.

Many women do not make any effort to learn anything about the line of work that occupies their husband's time.

They are irritated if their husbands endeavor to explain to them facts about the work in which they engage.

The wife who is really interested to know about her husband's work may eventually be able to give him good advice.

Some men act as if they were afraid their wives might know more than they and they want to be the great big "IT" in the family.

But intelligent married folk try to be partners in every way and especially in these times there should be understanding and team work at home.

Isn't It So?
